U.S. Taxpayers Spend $443,448 For Horsetails

By JOHN S. LANG
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — As a taxpayer this year you are spending billions for defense. You are also buying 155,000 pounds of horsetails, extra stuff. You are paying millions for foreign aid. And you are buying $108,240 worth of dog repellent. Welfare is a big expense. $396,004 for an unspecified number of electric erasers is a small one, in comparison.

So is $10,000 for ant and roach bait.

And $82,992 for doorbell rectifiers.

And $27,195 for plastic badges and $25,022 for switch toggles, type 2.

But before writing your congressman, understand the federal government has explanations for these purchases.

For example, the dog repellent is used by postmen.

The $443,448 worth of horsetail hair, extra stuff, black or gray is used by federal prisoners at Leavenworth, Kan., to make brushes.

Wet salted cattletide, bought for $190,572, is used to make footwear.

Explanations notwithstanding, the listing of federal contracts in official documents for 1970 boggles the mind.

There was $276,751 spent for rattan furniture, $44,100 for box lunches, $1,518,258 for barbed wire, $158,438 for plastic bags and $30,733 for disposable plastic specimen cups.

An emergency document destroyer, incendiary type, M3, cost $70,000. Window bars for CIA headquarters — first floor only — cost $24,875 to install.

A study of children's use of television cost $40,000 and repairs to an enlisted men's swimming pool $56,813.

The General Services Administration, the government's housekeeper, was a big spender. It bought an indefinite quantity plastic tableware for $17,230, portable typewriters for $74,214 and wrist watches for $408,200.

"Dust pans, etc." cost $33,154.

Food was a big expense. Salted soda crackers at 32 cents per pound cost $19,000. Shelled pecans, unroasted and unsalted, at $1.20 per pound cost $36,000. And there were canned tomatoes at $553,993, cranberry sauce for $85,381, dehydrated onion soup at $161,964 and green olives worth $1,232,812.

And for all the busy bureaucrats there was $380,749 worth of leather brief cases.

'Little FBI' Bill Scheduled For House Vote

ACLU Joins Foes Of Proposal; Senate In Recess

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A bill to create a Division of Law Enforcement within the attorney general's office goes to a floor vote when the Ohio House reconvenes tonight.

The bill, introduced by Rep. Alan E. Norris, R-59 Westerville, would set up a "little FBI" under the attorney general.

Norris has 54 other legislators on the bill as co-sponsors, more than enough to insure its passage in the 99 member House.

The House will also vote on a bill to require body repair shops and garages to keep records on estimates of work and work done involving automobile collisions.

The Senate Tuesday is scheduled to vote on a resolution that eventually could provide a $5,000 a year property tax exemption to persons over 65.

The resolution is sponsored by Sen. Charles Carney, D - 33 Youngstown and Sen. Robert M. Mottl, D - 24 Parma. It would put the issue on the November ballot as a constitutional amendment.

If approved by the voters, a tax break could be given to those over 65 earning $5,000 a year or less.

Also up for Senate action Tuesday is a bill that would outlaw giveaway promotions such as those sponsored by service stations.

The Ohio American Civil Liberties Union added its opposition to the "little FBI" bill over the weekend, joining the Buckeye State Sheriff's Association and the Rhodes administration against the measure.

The Ohio ACLU branch directors sent telegrams to legislative leaders calling the proposal unconstitutional and a "grave threat to the privacy of all citizens."

Kosygin Tells Nixon: Stop Laos Bombing

MOSCOW (AP) — Accusing the United States of armed interference in Laos, Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin has told President Nixon all American bombing of Laotian soil must stop before the Laotians can begin peace talks.

Tass, the official Soviet news agency, said Kosygin had written Nixon "in view of the aggravation of the situation in Laos as a result of the U.S. armed interference and since the neutrality of Laos is envisaged by the 1962 Geneva agreements."

"The restoration of peace should be started with consultations between political forces," the letter continued.

"The Central Committee of the Patriotic Front of Laos (the Pathet Lao) advanced recently a concrete and quite realistic five-point program of settling the problem."

"It is necessary first of all for the United States to stop speedily the escalation of the war and stop fully and unconditionally the bombings of Laotian territory. Only this can create conditions for the interested Laotian sides to meet."

Kosygin said his government would welcome contact between Prince Souvanna Phouma, the Laotian premier, and his adversary and half-brother, Prince Souphanouvong, the titular leader of the Pathet Lao.

"This is the road that can assure, in the event of the ending of the American intervention, a relaxation of tension in Laos and the creation of conditions for a political settlement in that country," Kosygin wrote.

and we'll match it blow-by-blow," one Carswell supporter said in advance of the debate.

It is expected to take a week, possibly two, before a vote and the length of the floor discussion on Carswell, a federal appeals court judge who lives in Tallahassee, Fla., was clearly on the minds of strategists for both sides.

The Carswell supporter said "we want any delay or lengthy debate to be clearly the other side's doing."

An opposition leader, Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., said while he wants an "extremely thorough examination of the record," a week might be adequate.

Hart, ranking Democratic liberal on the Judiciary Committee, added he would fight any filibuster against the nomination, a step being discussed by some opponents.

Another major force against Carswell, Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., said while a filibuster was possible he considered it a last resort.

With the opening of debate there were the usual declarations of strength by both sides. Supporters have claimed at various points an edge of up to 2 to 1 in their favor. Bayh last Friday said opponents had about 40 votes in their camp.

U.S. Ammo Vessel Diverted To Waters Off Cambodia

Reds Ignore Cambodian Order

SAIGON (AP) — Cambodia's deadline for withdrawal of North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces passed Sunday without any sign of compliance, and North Vietnamese and Cambodian troops were reported to have exchanged fire for four hours just before the deadline.

More than 20,000 Cambodian youths marched before the National Assembly building in Phnom Penh, the Cambodian capital, renewing the public's demand that Vietnamese Communist troops leave the country. The crowd dispersed quietly after an hour of speeches denouncing the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong.

Representatives of the Cambodian Assembly and government met with representatives of the North Vietnamese in Phnom Penh for three hours. But Hanoi broadcasts in advance of the meeting made no specific mention of troop withdrawals, saying instead that problems caused by the anti-Vietnamese rioting last week would be taken up.

The reported clash was the first of any size ever reported between Cambodian troops and the thousands of North Vietnamese and Viet Cong who for years have maintained bases just across the Cambodian-South Vietnamese border to escape American and South Vietnamese attack.

Associated Press correspondent Peter Arnett reported from South Vietnamese military headquarters in the Mekong Delta that the fighting occurred around Nui O, a 1,500-foot mountain about three miles from the Cambodian-Vietnamese border and 125 miles west of Saigon. It is the rear base of the North Vietnamese 1st Division.

Military sources told Arnett "a considerable amount" of small arms fire was exchanged by two battalions until the shooting stopped about daylight. (Continued on Page 14)

Suit On Thermal Pollution Could Be Landmark Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration's suit to force a Florida power company to construct safeguards against thermal pollution could become a landmark decision in man's battle to preserve the environment.

The suit against the Florida Power & Light Co. marks the first time the government has sought court action to halt possible pollution before any damage has occurred. And it focuses on nuclear power plants, a target of conservationists who fear hot water discharges will radically upset the balance of aquatic life.

The outcome will affect virtually all 15 nuclear generating plants now in operation in the United States and the scores under construction or in planning stages.

The government wants the Florida utility to modify its plans for reducing the temperature of cooling water at its Turkey Creek plant, currently being converted to nuclear power.

The company had planned to flush the artificially heated water into Biscayne Bay via a six-mile canal, stating the water will not harm the aquatic life in the bay.

This is in line with the position taken by most utility spokesmen when questioned about possible environmental damage at nuclear installations along the Great Lakes and coastal areas where there is an abundance of water.

The hot water at issue is created by the cooling process employed in most nuclear plants. Water is drawn from a bay or lake, circulated through the condensers and spewed back into the environment at temperatures ranging from 10 to 20 degrees higher.

The volume of water used by nuclear reactors is huge. It is estimated, for example, that by the end of this decade nuclear and conventional power plants will discharge 20,000 cubic feet of hot water per second into Lake Michigan.

By comparison, the amount of water flowing into that lake from all tributary streams is 25,000 cubic feet per second.

This torrent of hot water could harm the delicate relationship between temperature and marine life, thus destroying aquatic life, scientists say.

"The interrelationships of species, length of daylight and water temperature are so intimate that even a small change in temperature can have far reaching effects," Kenneth N. Mackenthun and Lowell E. Keup, two Interior Department biologists, said in a paper presented to a recent power conference.

Dissident Young Bureaucrats Fighting Government Policies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dissident young bureaucrats, angry over such issues as the Vietnam war and the Nixon administration's civil rights policies, are shattering the stereotype of the federal employee as a faceless civil servant.

To the increasing discomfort of their politically appointed bosses, a vocal minority among the under-40 crowd in government is making discernible waves in a distinctly unservice fashion.

Consider these news items from the past few weeks:

—Five hundred career government workers petitioned senators to reject President Nixon's nomination of Judge G. Harrold Carswell to the Supreme Court.

—Eighteen hundred employees at the Department of Health, Education and Welfare demanded an accounting of Nixon administration civil rights policies from their boss, Robert H. Finch.

—More than one-third of HEW's civil rights division protested the ouster of their director, Leon E. Panetta, in a strongly worded letter to the President.

—The Labor Department faces a minor rebellion from neighborhood Youth Corps directors objecting to a 25 per cent cut in money job trainees can earn.

Indeed, the uncounted thousands of young dissidents in the Washington bureaucracy are far outnumbered by the hundreds of thousands of federal employees who execute given policy each day without protest.

But the activists' loose network of organizations—such as the Federal Employees for a Democratic Society—newsletters and union groups have extended over the past three years into virtually every federal organization except the FBI and the Central Intelligence Agency.

For some the issues are job discrimination, employee rights, the sale of California grapes in government cafeterias, and court suits to stop the transfer of agencies from downtown Washington to outlying suburbs.

But for others, such as Roy Morgan, head of the union local at HEW, the issues extend more broadly to the fundamental relationship of employee to program.

Columbus Man Dies In Apartment Fire

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Walter Zuber, 70, died Sunday when fire destroyed his North-west Side apartment here.

Firemen reported damage estimated at $8,000 in the blaze, which caused extensive smoke and water damage to 14 apartments in the two-story building.

Larry Parks Released From Hospital

Larry Parks, Route 1, Ashville, was released from University Hospital, Columbus, on Saturday. He had received a kidney in a transplant operation Feb. 19.

Hospital doctors cautioned Parks that he'd "better be good" as his release from the hospital came three weeks earlier than doctors had projected.

The dismissed patient will return three times weekly to the hospital for tests and anti-rejection shots and must always remain on a sodium-restricted diet and continuous medication.

A package delivered last week to Mrs. Parks contained some 10,000 notes and letters from persons all over the nation who wrote of concern for the former ministerial student. The mail was directed through Wayland Baptist College in Plainview, Tex., where Parks was enrolled when stricken with kidney failure. Many of the writers included contributions to the Betty Crocker coupon crusade also, donations of money to the Larry Parks Fund.

THE fund, created by the First Baptist Church of Circleville to help defray hospital costs, is being administered locally by the First National Bank.

Robert Parks, Route 1, Chillicothe, donor of the kidney for his brother, Larry, was returned to University Hospital last week due to an infection.

According to reports he is responding to treatment.

Oil Slick Grows; Fear Louisiana Shore In Danger

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — An oil slick fed by three wild wells continued to build up in the Gulf of Mexico today amid fear that a windshift would carry the oil closer to the Louisiana coast.

The Chevron Oil Co. wells are 75 miles east-southeast of New Orleans and 28 miles east of the Main Pass of the Mississippi River. The coast guard reported the slick extended westward from the oil platform for four miles and toward the north and northeast for 10 miles.

A Chevron spokesman said no timetable could be given for control of the four wells still out of control, one of them spewing only gas. Drilling continued of a relief well on C6, the one responsible for most of the oil.

The Coast Guard said skimmer boats had corrected several mechanical difficulties and were picking up oil at a faster rate.

Youngstown Man Slain By Gunfire

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — A 20-year-old Youngstown man was killed by shots fired from an automobile early Sunday, coroner's investigators reported.

The victim, Eddie Taswell, was hit by bullets in the chest and the hip while outside a restaurant near his home, police said. The car sped away after the shooting.

Taswell had been discharged from the armed forces recently after serving a year in Vietnam.

Mutinous Crew Thought Behind Ship Takeover

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon said today it has received fragmentary information indicating that the two mutineers aboard the American cargo ship Columbia Eagle have been removed by Cambodian authorities.

The Pentagon said it understands that 13 other crewmen including the skipper remained aboard the vessel.

The ship now may possibly be moved into port—perhaps Sihanoukville—and the crew may possibly be taken ashore in Cambodia, the Pentagon said.

Defense Department spokesman Jerry Friedman said "We don't know if the civilian skipper of the Columbia Eagle is now in charge of his vessel."

The Pentagon stressed that its information is sketchy and may not be accurate in all respects.

The word came from what Friedman termed "Defense Department sources," presumably the U.S. Coast Guard cutter which has been stationed off Sihanoukville since the mutineers took over the Columbia Eagle over the weekend.

Two U.S. Navy ships also are now in the area—the repair ship Tutuila and the amphibian ship Denver.

"They have been asked to stand by in case they could be of assistance," Friedman said.

The presence of the repair ship does not mean that the Columbia Eagle has been damaged in any way, Friedman added.

Whether the Columbia Eagle is now considered to be in the hands of Cambodia or whether the crewmen aboard were in any sort of danger.

The Pentagon said it has received sporadic messages from the bomb-carrying cargo ship but would not release them at this time in the interest of protecting the crew.

Kennedy Ignores Threats On Life

LAWRENCE, Mass. (AP) — Despite written threats against his life, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy walked among an estimated 50,000 Lawrence area residents in a St. Patrick's Day parade Sunday.

A heavy guard and a state police helicopter guarded the senator and his wife, Joan, after parade officials received letters threatening the Massachusetts Democrat with harm. Officials gave no details of the threats.

Carswell Nomination Reaches Debate Stage

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court nomination of G. Harrold Carswell reached the debate stage in the Senate today with opponents promising an exhaustive look at the nominee's controversial record.

Carswell backers, planning to open debate with brief statements, were depending on more of a defensive strategy aimed at countering attacks on their man's civil rights positions and his legal stature.

"We'll answer the criticism and we'll match it blow-by-blow," one Carswell supporter said in advance of the debate.

Another major force against Carswell, Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., said while a filibuster was possible he considered it a last resort.

With the opening of debate there were the usual declarations of strength by both sides. Supporters have claimed at various points an edge of up to 2 to 1 in their favor. Bayh last Friday said opponents had about 40 votes in their camp.

Rhodes Rips Taft Record In Congress

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes has again lashed out at Rep. Robert Taft Jr.'s attendance and voting records.

Rhodes, who is running against Taft for the Republican senatorial nomination, charged in a news conference here this morning that Taft's attendance in Congress "has gone from bad to worse."

He said the Cincinnati answered only 52 per cent of the House roll calls from Jan. 1 through March 4 of this year, and showed up for roll calls only 75 per cent of the time in 1969.

"I do not believe Ohio can afford a part-time United States Senator," Rhodes said.

"I have been a full-time Governor, and I will be a full-time Senator," he added.

The governor also charged that Taft supported President Richard Nixon only 66 per cent of the time in 1968 votes and only 34 per cent of the time in 1969 votes and only 34 per cent of the time through March 4 this year.

Taft's campaign manager John Kelly Jr. took issue with Rhodes charges in a statement Friday and criticized the governor for failing to support Nixon in Miami and other Republican candidates in Ohio.

Kelly said Taft had supported the President more than any Republican congressman except Minority Leader Gerald Ford of Michigan.

The outcome will affect virtually all 15 nuclear generating plants now in operation in the United States and the scores under construction or in planning stages.

The government wants the Florida utility to modify its plans for reducing the temperature of cooling water at its Turkey Creek plant, currently being converted to nuclear power.

The company had planned to flush the artificially heated water into Biscayne Bay via a six-mile canal, stating the water would not harm the aquatic life in the bay.

This is in line with the position taken by most utility spokesmen when questioned about possible environmental damage at nuclear installations along the Great Lakes and coastal areas where there is an abundance of water.

The hot water at issue is created by the cooling process employed in most nuclear plants. Water is drawn from a bay or lake, circulated through the condensers and spewed back into the environment at temperatures ranging from 10 to 20 degrees higher.

The volume of water used by nuclear reactors is huge. It is estimated, for example, that by the end of this decade nuclear and conventional power plants will discharge 20,000 cubic feet of hot water per second into Lake Michigan.

By comparison, the amount of water flowing into that lake from all tributary streams is 25,000 cubic feet per second.

This torrent of hot water could harm the delicate relationship between temperature and marine life, thus destroying aquatic life, scientists say.

"The interrelationships of species, length of daylight and water temperature are so intimate that even a small change in temperature can have far reaching effects," Kenneth N. Mackenthun and Lowell E. Keup, two Interior Department biologists, said in a paper presented to a recent power conference.

Dissident Young Bureaucrats Fighting Government Policies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dissident young bureaucrats, angry over such issues as the Vietnam war and the Nixon administration's civil rights policies, are shattering the stereotype of the federal employee as a faceless civil servant.

To the increasing discomfort of their politically appointed bosses, a vocal minority among the under-40 crowd in government is making discernible waves in a distinctly unservice fashion.

Consider these news items from the past few weeks:

—Five hundred career government workers petitioned senators to reject President Nixon's nomination of Judge G. Harrold Carswell to the Supreme Court.

—Eighteen hundred employees at the Department of Health, Education and Welfare demanded an accounting of Nixon administration civil rights policies from their boss, Robert H. Finch.

—More than one-third of HEW's civil rights division protested the ouster of their director, Leon E. Panetta, in a strongly worded letter to the President.

—The Labor Department faces a minor rebellion from neighborhood Youth Corps directors objecting to a 25 per cent cut in money job trainees can earn.

Indeed, the uncounted thousands of young dissidents in the Washington bureaucracy are far outnumbered by the hundreds of thousands of federal employees who execute given policy each day without protest.

But the activists' loose network of organizations—such as the Federal Employees for a Democratic Society—newsletters and union groups has extended over the past three years into virtually every federal organization except the FBI and the Central Intelligence Agency.

For some the issues are job discrimination, employee rights, the sale of California grapes in government cafeterias, and court suits to stop the transfer of agencies from downtown Washington to outlying suburbs.

But for others, such as Roy Morgan, head of the union local at HEW, the issues extend more broadly to the fundamental relationship of employee to program.

Larry Parks Released From Hospital

Larry Parks, Route 1, Ashville, was released from University Hospital, Columbus, on Saturday. He had received a kidney in a transplant operation Feb. 19.

Hospital doctors cautioned Parks that he'd "better be good" as his release from the hospital came three weeks earlier than doctors had projected.

The dismissed patient will return three times weekly to the hospital for tests and anti-rejection shots and must always remain on a sodium-restricted diet and continuous medication.

A package delivered last week to Mrs. Parks contained some 10,000 notes and letters from persons all over the nation who wrote of concern for the former ministerial student. The mail was directed through Wayland Baptist College in Plainview, Tex., where Parks was enrolled when stricken with kidney failure. Many of the writers included contributions to the Betty Crocker coupon crusade also, donations of money to the Larry Parks Fund.

THE fund, created by the First Baptist Church of Circleville to help defray hospital costs, is being administered locally by the First National Bank.

Robert Parks, Route 1, Chillicothe, donor of the kidney for his brother, Larry, was returned to University Hospital last week due to an infection.

According to reports he is responding to treatment.

Oil Slick Grows; Fear Louisiana Shore In Danger

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — An oil slick fed by three wild wells continued to build up in the Gulf of Mexico today amid fear that a windshift would carry the oil closer to the Louisiana coast.

The Chevron Oil Co. wells are 75 miles east-southeast of New Orleans and 28 miles east of the Main Pass of the Mississippi River. The coast guard reported the slick extended westward from the oil platform for four miles and toward the north and northeast for 10 miles.

A Chevron spokesman said no timetable could be given for control of the four wells still out of control, one of them spewing only gas. Drilling continued of a relief well on C6, the one responsible for most of the oil.

The Coast Guard said skimmer boats had corrected several mechanical difficulties and were picking up oil at a faster rate.

Youngstown Man Slain By Gunfire

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — A 20-year-old Youngstown man was killed by shots fired from an automobile early Sunday, coroners' investigators reported.

The victim, Eddie Taswell, was hit by bullets in the chest and the hip while outside a restaurant near his home, police said. The car sped away after the shooting.

Taswell had been discharged from the armed forces recently after serving a year in Vietnam.

Mutinous Crew Thought Behind Ship Takeover

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon said today it has received fragmentary information indicating that the two mutineers aboard the American cargo ship Columbia Eagle have been removed by Cambodian authorities.

The Pentagon said it understands that 13 other crewmen including the skipper remained aboard the vessel.

The ship now may possibly be moved into port—perhaps Sihanoukville—and the crew may possibly be taken ashore in Cambodia, the Pentagon said.

Defense Department spokesman Jerry Friedman said "We don't know if the civilian skipper of the Columbia Eagle is now in charge of his vessel."

The Pentagon stressed that its information is sketchy and may not be accurate in all respects.

The word came from what Friedman termed "Defense Department sources," presumably the U.S. Coast Guard cutter which has been stationed off Sihanoukville since the mutineers took over the Columbia Eagle over the weekend.

Two U.S. Navy ships also are now in the area—the repair ship Tutuila and the amphibian ship Denver.

"They have been asked to stand by in case they could be of assistance," Friedman said.

The presence of the repair ship does not mean that the Columbia Eagle has been damaged in any way, Friedman added.

It was not immediately clear whether the Columbia Eagle is now considered to be in the hands of Cambodia or whether the crewmen aboard were in any sort of danger.

The Pentagon said it has received sporadic messages from the bomb-carrying cargo ship but would not release them at this time in the interest of protecting the crew.

Apparently a skeleton crew seized control of the Columbia

People Await Buzzards' Return

MEDINA, Ohio (AP) — The Hinckley Chamber of Commerce estimated 25,000 people were on hand Sunday to greet the buzzards on their annual return to Whipp's Ledges in the Cleveland Metropolitan Park system.

However, there were no buzzards to be seen—although Park Ranger James French said he had spotted three of the big, ugly creatures.

French said the birds "probably had bedded down because of the weather."

Snow had settled deep on the heavily wooded area.

Police Probe Burglary Of Firearms

Circleville Police are investigating the burglary of Mac's Goodyear and two other attempted burglaries in the same area that occurred Saturday night.

Thieves broke the window from a rear door at the tire and appliance shop to gain entrance. The entry was discovered by city policemen walking their routine beat of the downtown business area.

Eight guns, an undetermined amount of ammunition and a small quantity of change were taken in the burglary police said.

Attempts were also made to enter the Harden Body Shop and the Blue Ribbon Dairy truck shop, both located in the same area.

Nothing was believed taken from either of the latter two places, police said.

Charles Zickafoss, 116 Highland Ave., was implicated in another burglary that occurred at 629 S. Scioto St. Saturday night. He was bound to the grand jury at a preliminary hearing held today in Circleville Municipal Court.

Zickafoss allegedly broke into a home occupied by Dick Kellogg and took some groceries.

Mutinuous Crew

Eagle and sailed into sheltered Cambodian waters in the Gulf of Siam.

The 7,600-ton Columbia Eagle was bound for Thailand with a load of 500-pound and 750-pound bombs when it was diverted from its charted course, the Pentagon said.

Twenty-four members of the ship's 39-man crew were set adrift on open seas in two lifeboats, but were reported picked up by another munitions-carrying cargo vessel en route to Thailand.

Stressing that it had only fragmentary information, the Pentagon said Sunday, "It appears that the American cargo ship was diverted in international waters by persons aboard, possibly mutinous members of the civilian crew."

The ship is owned by the Columbia Steamship Co. in Portland, Ore. Irving Thayer, president of the firm, said the vessel left the West Coast Feb. 20. Its crew consisted entirely of U.S. citizens, including six naturalized Poles, Filipinos and Australians, he said.

The vessel was kept under surveillance in the Gulf of Siam by Navy aircraft and the U.S. Coast Guard cutter Mellon.

Most of its early information, the Pentagon said, came from the Rappahannock, the cargo vessel that reported picking up the 24 crew members Saturday.

There was no clear, immediate indication when the ship actually was seized.

Officials said they were unable to provide any information about the other 15 crew members who presumably remained aboard the 25-year old World War II-era Columbia Eagle when it sailed into Cambodian waters and lay near a small island west of Sihanoukville.

It also was unclear whether the captain of the Columbia Eagle, 51-year old Donald A. Swann of Portland, Ore., was still with his ship.

One naval source familiar with message transmissions from the Columbia Eagle and the Rappahannock said "there has not been a word that indicates any violence" in the incident. The Pentagon said no distress call was received from the Columbia Eagle.

But the New York Times reported in today's editions that officials had disclosed a message from the Columbia Eagle saying "men with guns" had taken over the ship.

The Times also said government officials, who refused to be identified, had indicated in Washington that on the basis of information available it appeared the Columbia Eagle's seizure was linked with peace movements in the United States.

The Times account said officials reported "growing evidence" that the ringleaders tricked 24 crewmen into abandoning ship with a bomb scare, then forced the other crew members at gunpoint to head for Cambodia in an effort to embarrass President Nixon.

The Pentagon declined comment on the Times report.

Thayer said the only information he had about the incident was being provided by the Navy.

A State Department spokesman said, meantime, Charge d'Affaires Lloyd M. Rives had been instructed to "seek the assistance and cooperation of the Cambodian government" to get the ship back.

Senator Sees More Action To Involve Solons In Laos

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Charles McC. Mathias Jr. says the Nixon administration decision not to fight repeal of the Tonkin Gulf resolution "sets the stage for a new joint decision on what is going on in Laos."

The Maryland Republican is credited with getting the tacit White House acceptance of his move to set aside the Tonkin Gulf resolution, used by the Johnson administration as the legal basis for massive intervention in Vietnam.

He says he hopes hearings into his repeal move starting today by Sen. J. W. Fulbright's Foreign Relations Committee will lead as well to close examination of U.S.-Laotian involvement.

The hearings are set against a backdrop of continued confusion and differing reports over the American role in the tiny Southeast Asian nation that neighbors Vietnam.

After first denying any ground combat troops were in Laos, or that Americans had been killed in ground fighting, the administration has conceded some U.S. casualties in hostile action.

But in no past administration account was there any mention of an incident reported by the Washington Post in today's edition. The newspaper, in an account written from Vientiane by T. D. Allman, said more than 12 Americans were killed two years ago when Communist troops overran a secret U.S. radar installation in northeast Laos, near the North Vietnamese border.

The paper said the incident had been kept secret. There was no immediate administration comment on the Post story.

The Post said the Americans were part of a force operating and guarding the installation, used to guide U.S. aircraft to their targets along the Ho Chi Minh Trail and in North Vietnam and electronically release their bombs by radio.

The Post story said the deaths of the Americans at the secret base occurred March 11, 1968, after several days of heavy fighting.

Last week, after first saying no Americans had been killed in ground combat in Laos, the administration acknowledged

"less than 50" U.S. personnel have died there. It also has conceded more servicemen have died from hostile gunfire than Army Capt. Joseph K. Bush, whose death was confirmed by the White House last week, after accounts were published disclosing his death.

The White House, in an apparent move to head off charges of a credibility gap, also said last week that it would disclose future deaths of Americans killed in Laos and repeated its statement that the U.S. involvement was related directly to the American role in Vietnam.

However, in a Baltimore speech Saturday night, Mathias raised the question whether the United States already is so committed in Laos that Congress couldn't halt further involvement.

"Congress should recognize today," he said, "that a North Vietnamese drive to overrun Laos would endanger so many American lives, would jeopardize so many projects, that it would be extremely difficult for Congress to block a major U.S. intervention."

The HAT LOOK for You

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)—Athens County Common Pleas Court Judge John Bolin ruled today that Barbara P. McBride, charged in the deaths of her two infant sons late last year, is not mentally competent and not able to stand trial.

Judge Bolin, in handing down his decision, declared the court had no other recourse than to declare Mrs. McBride, of Marietta, insane. She was ordered to the Lima State Hospital for treatment.

Mrs. McBride was arrested and charged on Dec. 30, 1969, for the suffocation death near here of her eldest son, Bryan, 3. She was also charged with responsibility for the death of her youngest son, three-month-old Chris, who died of exposure.

Chiropractic For Rheumatism

You may be one of many people in the United States suffering with rheumatism. According to statistics this so-called disease is responsible for more lost work days than any other chronic disability except nervous and mental disorders.

Rheumatism includes such conditions as lumbago, stiff neck, shoulder pains, bursitis and many other muscular aches and pains of the body.

We find that rheumatism results from misaligned vertebrae in the spine causing pressure on the delicate nerve fibers of the spinal cord. This interferes with the vital nerve energy from the brain which powers every organ and cell in the entire body. When compressed nerves choke off life energy to our purification system, our kidneys, liver and skin cells cannot dispose of waste products properly. This waste collects in the muscles and joints of the body causing a toxic condition which is very irritating to muscle fibers. This slows down muscular activity. Tension builds up, muscles become inactive and begin to ache, restricting movement, causing great pain if forced to move.

Only your chiropractor can correct misalignments in the spine and set free Nature's life-energy, which is the only healing force of the body; muscles will become active again and pain will disappear, such as the following case will illustrate.

For several years a 34-year-old dairy farmer suffered what had been previously diagnosed as "sciatic rheumatism" and lumbago. Unable to work, a neighboring farmer who had regained his own health through chiropractic took him to a chiropractor. He complained of being tired and sluggish all the time, had been a victim of asthma since age 12, and also suffered constipation, frequent indigestion, gas, bloating and pains under his heart.

Spinal analysis and x-rays disclosed an old spinal injury causing nerve interferences responsible for his many miserable aches and pains. Corrective adjustments properly balanced his spine removing the disturbing nerve pressures and Nature went to work. Within a month or so he was free of all pains and his Natural pep and energy returned as normal health was restored.

If you are among the sick and suffering, the chiropractic profession advises spinal examination by your chiropractor.

Have chiropractic check-ups regularly.

Police Probe Burglary Of Firearms

Circleville Police are investigating the burglary of Mac's Goodyear and two other attempted burglaries in the same area that occurred Saturday night.

Thieves broke the window from a rear door at the tire and appliance shop to gain entrance. The entry was discovered by city policemen walking their routine beat of the downtown business area.

Eight guns, an undetermined amount of ammunition and a small quantity of change were taken in the burglary police said.

Attempts were also made to enter the Harden Body Shop and the Blue Ribbon Dairy truck shop, both located in the same area.

Nothing was believed taken from either of the latter two places, police said.

Charles Zickafos, 116 Highland Ave., was implicated in another burglary that occurred at 629 S. Scioto St. Saturday night. He was bound to the grand jury at a preliminary hearing held today in Circleville Municipal Court.

Zickafos allegedly broke into a home occupied by Dick Kellogg and took some groceries.

Mufinous Crew

Eagle and sailed into sheltered Cambodian waters in the Gulf of Siam.

The 7,600-ton Columbia Eagle was bound for Thailand with a load of 500-pound and 750-pound bombs when it was diverted from its chartered course, the Pentagon said.

Twenty-four members of the ship's 39-man crew were set adrift on open seas in two lifeboats, but were reported picked up by another munitions-carrying cargo vessel en route to Thailand.

Stressing that it had only fragmentary information, the Pentagon said Sunday, "It appears that the American cargo ship was diverted in international waters by persons aboard, possibly mutinous members of the civilian crew."

The ship is owned by the Columbia Steamship Co. in Portland, Ore. Irving Thayer, president of the firm, said the vessel left the West Coast Feb. 20. Its crew consisted entirely of U.S. citizens, including six naturalized Poles, Filipinos and Australians, he said.

The vessel was kept under surveillance in the Gulf of Siam by Navy aircraft and the U.S. Coast Guard cutter Mellon.

Most of its early information, the Pentagon said, came from the Rappahannock, the cargo vessel that reported picking up the 24 crew members Saturday.

There was no clear, immediate indication when the ship actually was seized.

Officials said they were unable to provide any information about the other 15 crew members who presumably remained aboard the 25-year old World War II-era Columbia Eagle when it sailed into Cambodian waters and lay near a small island west of Sihanoukville.

It also was unclear whether the captain of the Columbia Eagle, 51-year old Donald A. Swann of Portland, Ore., was still with the ship.

One naval source familiar with message transmissions from the Columbia Eagle and the Rappahannock said "there has not been a word that indicates any violence" in the incident. The Pentagon said no distress call was received from the Columbia Eagle.

But the New York Times reported in today's editions that officials had disclosed a message from the Columbia Eagle saying "men with guns" had taken over the ship.

The Times also said government officials, who refused to be identified, had indicated in Washington that on the basis of information available it appeared the Columbia Eagle's seizure was linked with peace movements in the United States.

The Times account said officials reported "growing evidence" that the ringleaders tricked 24 crewmen into abandoning ship with a bomb scare, then forced the other crew members at gunpoint to head for Cambodia in an effort to embarrass President Nixon.

The Pentagon declined comment on the Times report.

Thayer said the only information he had about the incident was being provided by the Navy.

A State Department spokesman said, meantime, Charge d'Affaires Lloyd M. Rives had been instructed to "seek the assistance and cooperation of the Cambodian government" to get the ship back.

Senator Sees More Action To Involve Solons In Laos

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Charles McC. Mathias Jr. says the Nixon administration decision not to fight repeal of the Tonkin Gulf resolution "sets the stage for a new joint decision on what is going on in Laos."

The Maryland Republican is credited with getting the tacit White House acceptance of his move to set aside the Tonkin Gulf resolution, used by the Johnson administration as the legal basis for massive intervention in Vietnam.

He says he hopes hearings into his repeal move starting today by Sen. J. W. Fulbright's Foreign Relations Committee will lead to well to close examination of U.S.-Laotian involvement.

The hearings are set against a backdrop of continued confusion and differing reports over the American role in the tiny Southeast Asian nation that neighbors Vietnam.

After first denying any ground combat troops were in Laos, or that Americans had been killed in ground fighting, the administration has conceded some U.S. casualties in hostile action.

But in no past administration account was there any mention of an incident reported by the Washington Post in today's edition. The newspaper, in an account written from Vientiane by T. D. Allman, said more than 12 Americans were killed two years ago when Communist troops overran a secret U.S. radar installation in northeast Laos, near the North Vietnamese border.

The paper said the incident had been kept secret. There was no immediate administration comment on the Post story.

The Post said the Americans were part of a force operating and guarding the installation, used to guide U.S. aircraft to their targets along the Ho Chi Minh Trail and in North Vietnam and electronically release their bombs by radio.

The Post story said the deaths of the Americans at the secret base occurred March 11, 1968, after several days of heavy fighting.

Last week, after first saying no Americans had been killed in ground combat in Laos, the administration acknowledged

"less than 50" U.S. personnel have died there. It also has conceded more servicemen have died from hostile gunfire than Army Capt. Joseph K. Bush, whose death was confirmed by the White House last week, after accounts were published disclosing his death.

The White House, in an apparent move to head off charges of a credibility gap, also said last week that it would disclose future deaths of Americans killed in Laos and repeated its statement that the U.S. involvement was related directly to the American role in Vietnam.

However, in a Baltimore speech Saturday night, Mathias raised the question whether the United States already is so committed in Laos that Congress couldn't halt further involvement.

"Congress should recognize today," he said, "that a North Vietnamese drive to overrun Laos would endanger so many American lives, would jeopardize so many projects, that it would be extremely difficult for Congress to block a major U.S. intervention."

Woman Declared Legally Insane

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)—Athens County Common Pleas Court Judge John Bolin ruled today that Barbara P. McBride, charged in the deaths of her two infant sons late last year, is not mentally competent and not able to stand trial.

Judge Bolin, in handing down his decision, declared the court had no other recourse than to declare Mrs. McBride, of Marietta, insane. She was ordered to the Lima State Hospital for treatment.

Mrs. McBride was arrested and charged on Dec. 30, 1969, for the suffocation death near here of her eldest son, Bryan, 3. She was also charged with responsibility for the death of her youngest son, three-month-old Chris, who died of exposure.

Chiropractic For Rheumatism

You may be one of many people in the United States suffering with rheumatism.

According to statistics this so-called disease is responsible for more lost work days than any other chronic disability except nervous and mental disorders.

Rheumatism includes such conditions as lumbago, stiff neck, shoulder pains, bursitis and many other muscular aches and pains of the body.

We find that rheumatism results from misaligned vertebrae in the spine causing pressure on the delicate nerve fibers of the spinal cord. This interferes with the vital nerve energy from the brain which powers every organ and cell in the entire body. When compressed nerves choke off life-energy to our purification system, our kidneys, liver and skin cells cannot dispose of waste products properly. This waste collects in the muscles and joints of the body causing a toxic condition which is very irritating to muscle fibers. This slows down muscular activity. Tension builds up, muscles become inactive and begin to ache, restricting movement, causing great pain if forced to move.

Only your chiropractor can correct misalignments in the spine and set free Nature's life-energy, which is the only healing force of the body; muscles will become active again and pain will disappear, such as the following case will illustrate.

For several years a 34-year-old dairy farmer suffered what had been previously diagnosed as "rheumatic rheumatism" and lumbago. Unable to work, a neighboring farmer who had regained his own health through chiropractic took him to a chiropractor. He complained of being tired and sluggish all the time, had been a victim of asthma since age 12, and also suffered constipation, frequent indigestion, gas, bloating and pains under his heart.

Spinal analysis and x-rays disclosed an old spinal injury causing nerve interferences responsible for his many miserable aches and pains. Corrective adjustments properly balanced his spine removing the disturbing nerve pressures and Nature went to work. Within a month or so he was free of all pains and his Natural pep and energy returned as normal health was restored.

If you are among the sick and suffering, the chiropractic profession advises spinal examination by your chiropractor.

Have chiropractic check-ups regularly.

People Await Buzzards' Return

MEDINA, Ohio (AP) — The Hinckley Chamber of Commerce estimated 25,000 people were on hand Sunday to greet the buzzards on their annual return to Whipp's Ledges in the Cleveland Metropolitan Park system.

However, there were no buzzards to be seen—although Park Ranger James French said he had spotted three of the big, ugly creatures.

French said the birds "probably had bedded down because of the weather."

Snow had settled deep on the heavily wooded area.

INTERNATIONAL DEMOLAY WEEK

MARCH 16 to 22

51st Anniversary of DeMolay

The Order of DeMolay

Building better citizens out of teenage boys is the goal of the Order of DeMolay, an international youth organization founded on March 18, 1919 in Kansas City, Mo., by Frank S. Land and nine teenage youths.

The organization was named for Jacques DeMolay, the last Grand Master of the Knights Templars, who was burned at the stake by King Phillip of France on March 18, 1314, as a martyr to loyalty and toleration. Today, members of DeMolay strive to carry on the fine ideals of which DeMolay gave his life — loyalty and service to God and fellow men. DeMolay does not attempt to take the place of the home or church, but rather supplement them. The organization's purpose is to offer the teenage boy of today:

1. A wholesome occupation for his spare time
2. Worth-while associates
3. The best of environment
4. An interesting and complete program of all-around youth development.

51st Anniversary of DeMolay

The Order of DeMolay

Building better citizens out of teenage boys is the goal of the Order of DeMolay, an international youth organization founded on March 18, 1919 in Kansas City, Mo., by Frank S. Land and nine teenage youths.

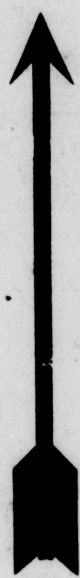

The organization was named for Jacques DeMolay, the last Grand Master of the Knights Templars, who was burned at the stake by King Phillip of France on March 18, 1314, as a martyr to loyalty and toleration. Today, members of DeMolay strive to carry on the fine ideals of which DeMolay gave his life — loyalty and service to God and fellow men. DeMolay does not attempt to take the place of the home or church, but rather supplement them. The organization's purpose is to offer the teenage boy of today:

1. A wholesome occupation for his spare time
2. Worth-while associates
3. The best of environment
4. An interesting and complete program of all-around youth development.

Looking For Improvement

In asking Congress to authorize a new agency to conduct research projects in education, the President said the nation is not "significantly applying science and technology to the techniques of teaching when we spend less than one-half of 1 percent of our educational budget on research, compared with 5 percent of health and 10 percent of defense."

While there may be no relationship between fruitful research which can be spent on education and that which is required for defense or some other major activity, most educators and administrators would agree that "American education is in urgent need of reform." So would many parents and taxpayers.

Because many persons are interested in educational reform, but from many different points of view, it may require a new agency of government to give direction to research priorities and goals. But creation of a new agency carries with it the danger of self-perpetuation through the medium of devising research projects with little potential of making any real contributions to the quality of education.

That kind of help isn't needed.

Space Attractions

A "grand tour" of all the planets by a spaceship which contains navigational and control computers so sophisticated they can maintain and repair the craft for a decade or more of continuous space flying. Fantastic?

Of course it is, but that is one of the major projects envisioned by the space agency for the coming decade.

Except for several more scheduled moon landings, men will not set foot on another planet until about mid-1980, when Mars comes into position and technology has progressed sufficiently to undertake such a long distance trip.

During this period, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration will work on its orbiting space laboratory and reusable shuttle craft connecting the platform with earth. The exploration of space continues, perhaps at a somewhat moderate pace.

But taking the grand tour of Pluto, Saturn, Uranus and the others by remote camera will be worth the price of admission.

Recently the Wall Street Journal reported that a staff member of the Office of Economic Opportunity ordered in a memo that the agency refer to the poor as "low income individuals."

Apparently the reasoning was that some of the poor are offended by the word. Her boss, Donald Rumsfeld, disagreed.

There is too much sensitivity to plain talking. Street cleaners call themselves sanitary engineers, carpenters are

The same kind of thinking prompts some over-sensitive ethnic groups to waste time and effort protesting over "offensive" literary classics in the library.

It is no disgrace to be poor, and poor people should not be insulted to be referred to as such. In the interest of accuracy, brevity and clarity, it is better to tell it like it is.

They are simply poor people, not low income individuals.

The college age group in the United States has increased from 9.4 million in 1960 to approximately 14.2 million today, the Census Bureau reveals. Seems the campus crowd has become just that — quite a crowd.

More than 14 million! — that's a lot of young Americans who should be concerned whether school keeps or not.

A major chocolate company has finally given up the five-cent candy bar. They didn't succumb to the mini-craze, it seems.

The man at the next desk who suffers (if that's the right word) from a sweet tooth says the disappearance of the five-cent candy bar must have been a decision hard to swallow.

IN "THE Decline and Fall of Practically Everybody," Socialist Will Cuppy once explained why the Pyramids outside Cairo in Egypt still stand. "It is not in the nature of pyramids to fall down," he wrote, clarifying the situation once and for all, and added, "They probably couldn't fall down if they tried!"

You'll never catch Groucho Marx at any of those nude shows off-Broadway. "I took off all my clothes at home the other night," explains Groucho, "and inspected myself closely in the mirror. Then I said, 'This obviously isn't worth eleven dollars!'"

During a visit to a Czechoslovakian farm, a Soviet official reminded a farmer, "Tomorrow is the first anniversary of our liberation of your country. Why not celebrate the occasion and kill a couple of geese?"

"Why geese?" retorted the farmer. "It wasn't THEIR fault!"

It turns out that nude man seen at a police call box on Queens Boulevard the other night was not a misplaced actor from "Oh Calcutta!" but an embarrassed member of the finest, warning, "Lieutenant, tell everybody to be on the lookout for a mugger dressed as a cop."

"I don't want one cent of alimony," conceded an angry wife in divorce court. "I just want this bum I wed in a moment of madness to leave me as he found me." "How was that?" asked the judge. Explained the wife, "I was a widow."

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

My mother went to the hospital for the removal of her gall bladder. Shortly after the operation she had an embolus of the lung which kept her in the hospital for many weeks. Could this complication have been prevented?

Mr. R. K., Wisconsin
Dear Mr. K.: An embolus to the lung after surgery is a rare complication and unfortunately converts a rather simple operation into a complex one that can often require a long period of convalescence.

An embolus is a small piece of a clot that has broken away from inside a vein or an artery. This then travels through the blood stream and frequently lodges in the lung and complicates surgery.

Modern safe anesthesia and the present tendency to get patients up out of bed quickly after surgery have considerably reduced the frequency of embolism.

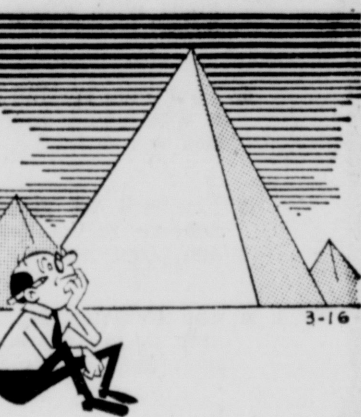

Blood-thinning drugs and early recognition of clots in blood vessels have further reduced the occurrence of this condition. There is really no way that this can be entirely prevented unless it is known that an unusual heart condition or clots in the blood vessels exist before the time of surgery.

If a person has had a detachment of the retina is he more prone to have a recurrence?

Mr. L. B. B., Kansas
Dear Mr. B.: Many readers want to know exactly what the retina is and how it becomes detached. It is the delicate lining of the back of the inside of the eyeball. It is one of the truly wondrous mechanisms of the body by which light rays that enter the eye are transmitted to the brain.

There are many reasons why the retina may sometimes become detached. Far too often patients live in fear that this will occur because "I have a friend who had a detached retina and his vision was just like mine." This is an unnecessary fear that can be aroused by listing symptoms. Therefore, I avoid it.

There are now many brilliant operations for the re-attachment of the retina. Diathermy and laser beams are but a few with which success is attained and vision is restored. The key to the prevention of a subsequent retinal detachment lies, of course, in seeking, finding and

Is there a special diet for under-weight adults?

Mrs. H. U., Massachusetts
Dear Mrs. U.: An awful lot of people are going to hate you for the question and me for the answer. Jealousy will spill over and I doubt that any readers will go out of their way to wish you "bon appetit." Creamed foods, luscious desserts, egg nogs, malteds and larger portions of almost every fattening food can bring you the additional calories you seek. I enjoy the pastas — have some for me.

NO BANK KNIGHT — Mrs. Ursula Mix, 39, widow of a Gateway National Bank guard in Chicago who died of a gunshot wound suffered during a robbery at the bank, is saddened by the ways of finance. The Gateway president gave her a check for $913.02 after her husband died — a month's pay. Along came a new president, George P. Latin America And Soviets

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN
A "law and order" man, the anti-Communist army Colonel Carlos Arana Osorio, has won a legitimate presidential election in Guatemala. So we might say that things are looking up for "our side" in Latin America.

"Oh, yeah?" counters the U.S. Citizens Committee for a Free Cuba, which promptly bombards the White House with a long telegram pointing to the evidence of increasing Soviet-Castro collaboration in most of Latin America south of Guatemala.

So what are we to believe? Daniel James's beautifully done biography of the late guerrilla chieftain Che Guevara, might, if taken out of the context of recent history, be set down as a comforting study. For Che's attempt to repeat his Cuban success by raising a peasant Castroite revolution in the jungles of southeastern Bolivia failed utterly. A band of invading Cuban veterans of the anti-Batista struggle, led by Che himself with some minor native help, was annihilated by Bolivian rangers who had had the benefit of U.S. counter-insurgency training. Che, who had disappeared from Cuba to take part in an unsuccessful uprising in the Congo before going on to Bolivia, was killed by his Bolivian captors — and that was, supposedly, that.

Bolivia was "safe" for the time being. This was a most lucky thing for a successful Castroite revolution in the very heart of Latin America (Bolivia, though land-locked, has contiguous boundaries with Peru, Chile, Argentina, Paraguay and Brazil) would have endangered the whole southern part of a continent.

A careful reading of Daniel James's test, however, leads to less comforting conclusions. What Che Guevara's failure to create "two, three, many Vietnams" (his phrase) in South America proved was that peasant revolutions aren't practicable. It is the cities that count in Latin America, even in the least developed areas. Che failed to rouse the Bolivian peasantry, but, more damaging, he couldn't win the city-and-tinmine-based proletariat to his side. The Bolivian Communist Party left him severely alone.

The ironic thing about Bolivia is that General Ovando, who was the boss of the army that cornered Che Guevara, is now, as the President of his country, taking it in a "leftist national direction" that is eminently satisfactory to the Soviet Union. As a matter of fact, the Soviets were happy to see Guevara fail in Bolivia: there is even evidence that it was a Soviet agent, Tania Bunko, who betrayed Che. And Fidel Castro, who was once Che Guevara's brother-in-arms, can do nothing better than go along with Soviet Latin American policy. Cuba depends utterly on the Soviets for both economic and military support.

The point is that the U.S. is now being subjected to indirect blackmail throughout Latin America. The Soviets have made a tacit offer to President Rafael Caldera of Venezuela to call off the guerrillas in the countryside if satisfactory trade deals are forthcoming. The Peruvians, who are "leftist nationalists" like the Bolivians, have made a fifteen million dollar trade agreement with Communist Hungary. The new game in Latin America is to play the U.S. and the Russians off against each other. A report in Atlas magazine predicts that the Bolivian government will, quite cynically, try to use the image of the dead Che Guevara to further its own aims. Che, according to this prognosis, will be portrayed as a hero who was done in, not by a Soviet woman agent working in cahoots with the Bolivian government of the time, but by "paid U.S. informers." And, with Che's posthumous rehabilitation completed, Bolivia will reach an entente with both Castro's Cuba and the Soviet Union.

Paul Bethel of the U.S. Citizens Committee for a Free Cuba argues, very persuasively, that the Latin Americans love winners — and more and more they see that the Communists are winning. His committee proposes that Nixon show some strength of his own, by imposing, among other things, "comprehensive sanctions on all shipping to and from Cuba to include all vessels of any line sending any ship to Cuba," and by demanding the immediate repatriation of seven hundred U.S. citizens held hostage by Havana. The way to give this second demand some muscle would be to cancel the U.S.-funded air lift which enables Castro to rid himself of his opposition by sending it to Miami at the rate of 4,000 Cubans a month.

But will we get tough in time? It isn't very likely.

"SCALPED" IN DIVORCE COURT—Vincent DiCola, 31, Chicago, is shown with and without his $450 hairpiece at divorce court after his estranged wife, Marlene, grabbed his wig, claiming it was hers because she paid for it, stomped on it and left. "SCALPED" IN DIVORCE COURT—Vincent DiCola, 31, Chicago, is shown with and without his $450 hairpiece at divorce court after his estranged wife, Mariene, grabbed his wig, claiming it was hers because she paid for it, stomped on it and left. An attorney said, "I've seen people lose lots of things in divorce court, but never before a head of hair."

Informative sessions to explain the new math which was begun in the Circleville schools were set up to explain to parents why they couldn't help their kids with homework any more. A seminar was also held to instruct teachers in the system about the modern math.

James Speakman, Laurelville, discovered an egg laid by one of his hens that was truly unique. Although still ovular, the egg had a "head" and "tail" with two appendages extending from the ends, each almost equal in length to the egg itself.

Circleville Board of Education awarded contracts for construction of the new high school and four elementary rooms at Atwater School for a total bid of $1,199,084.

An automatic switchboard was installed at Berger Hospital. The new system could handle 80 lines and allowed inter-hospital calling automatically.

Fire swept through a kitchen at Noel's King Boy drive-in causing an estimated $5,000 damage. The blaze was blamed on a faulty thermostat on a new chicken broaster, causing about 50 pounds of shortening to overheat.

An old time Vaudeville Show was one of the highlights at the Walnut Twp. PTA Jitney Supper. Heading the bill were the "Two-by-Fours," a popular barbershop quartet; the Walnut Twp. Rockettes and "Crazy Fingers" Merhley and his Honky-Tonk piano.

Circleville High School's Jim Wood cracked the 70-yard hurdle in the Central District High School Indoor track meet, blazing to a finish in 8.6 seconds.

Lt. Noble Barr, veteran city firefighter, announced his retirement after 25½ years of service with the local department. One of the most humorous duties he recalled during his years of service was when he had to climb an apple tree to rescue Harold Airdridge, who was then five years old.

Charles Walters, Circleville postmaster, had the license number 4313 — the city's zip code number.

The Metta Larks, a local women's quartet, shared the spotlight with Robert Goulet on the Dorothy Shay television show. Members of the women's singing group were Metta Dill, Carolyn Peters, Donna Fosnough and Louise Barr.

Cleo V. Keaton, 27, was arrested for the murder of Maurice Lee Francis, 50, Williamsport. He had been the object of a statewide search for this slaying and a Dayton tavern shooting a week earlier.

According To Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK AP) — True age is not measured by the years you have survived but by the way you still live.

Most people grow old unconsciously. Suddenly they are surprised to find they aren't young anymore. And the accompanying feeling of disillusionment makes them feel even older.

To keep from getting old before you have to, it is necessary to keep from doing those things which make you look, act and feel old.

For example, you are probably letting yourself get old prematurely if—

On most of the days you carry an umbrella it doesn't actually rain—you just thought it might. One of your kitchen drawers is stuffed with all kinds of string you have saved but could never possibly use.

You would rather read a long dull obituary in the newspaper than a stirring account of a sports event.

It occurs to you that you are talking more to yourself than you used to, and enjoying it less.

Silently you disapprove of the new pastor in your church because he talks too much about social issues instead of sticking to the dangers of sin and the perils of hellfire.

If the doctor can't find anything wrong with you, you start taking medicine habitually anyway; you figure anyone your age must have something wrong with him somewhere and therefore ought to be taking medicine to cure it, whatever it is.

Any mention of sex either bores you or makes you nervous. You can't see any reason why anybody would want to talk or write about it anyway. The whole business is vastly overrated.

Things don't seem to last as long as they did in the old days —lamps, light bulbs, rugs and shoestrings. Why, sometimes it seems like everything in the world is wearing out all at once.

It is longer than you can remember since you had a new idea or changed an old prejudice. You have a set opinion on every subject, and the opinion usually isn't too good.

You would rather cuss politics and politicians than discuss them.

Life has settled down to a series of rigid rituals for you. You avoid fresh adventures. It upsets you even if you have to turn a fresh corner and drive down a different street to get home.

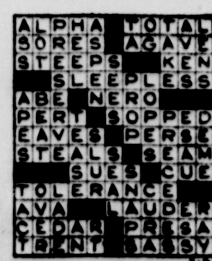

You have lost the feeling of wonder, except that now and then you wake up in the middle of the night and wonder what life is all about and whether it is all worthwhile.

Yes, you are old—old too soon. But you have no one to blame but yourself. You let it happen to you.

Mrs. Marie Justus Happy Learning To Walk Again

THRILL OF WALKING — Mrs. Marie Justus, shown on the right, is very happy now that she can walk straight again with only the support of the hand of Mrs. Allan Berger, therapist.

By MARION SINES
Herald Society Editor

A knee that was injured when she first learned to walk caused Mrs. Marie Justus of 121½ E. Main St. to limp considerably. She accepted this as a way of life until Feb. 17, 1968 when she fell on steps injuring the ankle of her lame leg.

Through the help of the Easter Seal Society Mrs. Justus is now learning to walk without a limp for the first time since she can remember.

Mrs. Justus spent 31 days at Berger Hospital after her fall and then was transferred to University Hospital in Columbus where an operation was performed on the crippled knee. When the knee injury first

Scioto Chapel WSCS Plans Rummage Sale

Women's Society of Scioto Chapel United Methodist Church met for its March meeting in the Parish House with 17 members attending.

For devotions members sang "He Lives" and Mrs. Fannie Brooks presented two readings entitled "His Music" and "No Music Without Power."

Mrs. Robert Drummond, president, presided over the business meeting. Thank-you cards were read from Mrs. Charles Huston and family, and Mrs. Edith Koch.

The Society will hold a rummage sale April 10 and 11 at 156 W. Main St. in Circleville. Marking of items will be done April 7 at the Parish House and all donations are to be in by then.

A committee consisting of Mrs. Cecil Ward, Mrs. Lee Downs, Mrs. Henry Hansen and Mrs. Glen Fausnaugh will be in charge of a stock sale dinner in May.

Birthday dues were paid by Miss Effie Walker and Mrs. Downs.

Guest speaker was Miss Jan Clifton, a student at Circleville High School. She spoke on "Drug Addiction And Addicts." She told of several vital signs to look for in teenagers to determine if they are using drugs. Glue sniffing is very common in children between the ages of 8 and 15. Later they become bored with that and look for stronger drugs.

At the close of the program Mrs. Cecil Ward sang two Irish songs entitled "Galway Bay" and "Tumble Down Shack."

Guests were Mrs. James Fausnaugh, Mrs. John Eitel, Randy Lein and Mrs. Charles Wooten who became a member of the society.

Refreshments were served by hostesses Mrs. Elzie Brooks, Mrs. Howard Koch, Mrs. Lee Downs and Mrs. Mary Besanson.

The meeting was closed with prayer by Miss Lein of the Circleville Bible College.

Medical Society Auxiliary Has Guest Luncheon

The Woman's Auxiliary of the Pickaway County Medical Society held a guest luncheon Friday at Pickaway Arms with Mrs. Robert Smith, president, in charge.

Mrs. Litta Roberson, guest speaker, told of her experiences working with the VISTA program in Arkansas. Mrs. Roberson is a sister of Mrs. Walter Heine, Meadow Lane.

Mrs. Ruth Meltzer, Portsmouth, president of Ohio State Medical Auxiliary and Mrs. Eileen Arnoff, Worthington, district chairman, attended the affair.

occurred the cast was put on with the knee in a flexed position. Now it is straight and the ankle injury is almost well.

From the hospital she was taken to a nursing home for a period of four months. Upon leaving the nursing home she needed special shoes with a brace for her injured ankle. The ambulance took her to the shoe store where she was fitted while still on the cot.

Mrs. Justus has progressed from a wheel chair, a walker and a quad cane to taking steps unassisted under the guidance of Mrs. Allan Berger, physical therapist.

Mrs. Berger works with the Easter Seal Society and visits Mrs. Justus regularly and notes that she is recovering rapidly. Mrs. Berger's work with the society is as a consultant as well as a therapist.

She orders special equipment for patients such as oddly equipped wheelchairs supports of many kinds for particular cases. She has trained a nurse for the society who is now giving home therapy to some patients.

Mrs. Justus is grateful to the Easter Seal Society for all the assistance they have given her. Until her injury she was under the impression that the society only gave assistance to children. Her praises for their work is high indeed.

3 Charged In Slayings

CINCINNATI (AP) — Three persons have been charged in connection with three weekend slayings in Greater Cincinnati.

Andrew Tarver, 33, of suburban Lincoln Heights is charged with first-degree murder in the fatal shooting late Saturday night of his estranged wife, Katherine, 29. She was wounded in the face by a shot-gun blast as she stood by a window at the home of relatives.

Gondola Dunham, 73, of Cincinnati was charged with first-degree manslaughter Sunday in the shooting death late Saturday night during a card game of James Gazaway, 75, Cincinnati. Police said the two had been friends for about 40 years.

Ethel Walker, 44, of the Queen City faces a first-degree murder charge in the stabbing death Saturday of her common-law husband, Miles Daniels, 42.

In connection with a fatal shooting in Racine, Wis., Eddie McGee who formerly lived here surrendered to police Sunday. He is charged with murder in the shooting death of a restaurant operator Jan. 26 during a robbery.

A young American woman spent three years of studying wild mountain gorillas in Africa and concluded that the gorilla is one of the most maligned animals in the world. Beneath their fierce appearance lies a shy and gentle nature, Dian Fossey believes.

Hostesses were Mrs. Leist, chairman; Mrs. C. K. Vaughn, Mrs. Hulise Hays, Mrs. Burl Wiggins, and Mrs. George Van Camp.

land told a Perry County Jefferson-Jackson Day Dinner Saturday he plans to "dust off the electric chair" if elected governor.

John J. Gilligan of Cincinnati said Sunday, "I opposed civil violence long before that position became fashionable or politically 'safe.'" He told a Retail Clerks Union seminar in Mansfield, "I stand with those Ohioans — those Americans — who believe that violence has no place in our society."

Sweeney said, "Ever since we started the dialog about doing away with capital punishment, things have gotten out of hand." He called for greater enforcement of laws on rioters and criticized Gilligan for allegedly saying anti-riot laws are bad.

In his Sunday address, Gilligan said his position on civil violence had been "deliberately misrepresented" by his opposition.

"Anyone who throws a rock at a policeman should be prosecuted. . . . Any student who destroys property should be dealt with promptly by school officials. . . . Any peace officer who uses a gun or club on a citizen except in self defense should face charges," Gilligan said.

Another candidate for governor, Republican Donald E. Lukens, touched briefly on the law and order issue at a fund-raising dinner Saturday in Columbus.

He said young Americans must improve society by working within the system. "Young people are beginning to realize that the best way to change America is by working for it," Lukens said.

In Marietta Sunday, Lukens said the Nixon administration has done more to fight organized crime than any previous administration. The Middletown Republican said he would support 13 anti-crime bills now pending in Congress.

In the Republican Senatorial race, Gov. James A. Rhodes came under fire Sunday from former Hamilton County GOP Chairman Gordon M. Scherer.

Scherer, now representing the 71st District in the Ohio House said, "Gov. Rhodes is not the kind of man Richard Nixon and Ohio needs in the U.S. Senate."

Scherer accused the governor of trying to stop Nixon's nomination in the GOP convention at Miami and quoted Rhodes as saying during the convention that "Nixon is not a winner."

In a statement Saturday, Rhodes urged repeal of the Gulf of Tonkin resolution, used by the Johnson administration as a basis for sending ground troops to Vietnam.

Rhodes said, "If Secretary of State Rogers believes that repeal should wait until after the Vietnam war is concluded, I would follow his recommendation. However, repeal action would restore congressional authority over matters of war and peace in Southeast Asia and should be taken to prevent future Vietnams."

Rhodes named John Marshall Briley of Toledo chairman of his statewide campaign, Briley, unsuccessful GOP candidate for the U.S. Senate in 1962, is former chairman of the Ohio Republican Finance Committee and a member of the Republican National Finance Committee.

Rhodes' opponent in the primary, Robert Taft Jr., accused what he called "liberal and conservative fringe groups" of disruption of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

Taft told the Greene County Medical Society Saturday that civil disobedience, violence and flouting of the law had no place in American society. He said disrespect for law by minority groups lies at the heart of the crime problem.

Democratic senatorial hopeful Howard M. Metzbaum criticized the President Sunday for what he called an even-handed approach to the Middle East problem "while Israel fights single handedly and the Arabs are fed arms by . . . France, Russia and Czechoslovakia."

He said Arabs are much better armed than they were before the 1967 war and called for bringing the opposing sides to the conference table as "the only logical way to achieve an understanding."

Views on Television

By CYNTHIA LOWERY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The television networks lined up a busy and varied schedule of entertainment specials over the weekend, with something interesting for just about every taste.

There was Sunday night's "To Confuse the Angel," an original drama by Loring Mandel, on NBC. This was the story of an aging family doctor who had devoted his life to his work and his patients at the expense of his family. He was facing, but resisting, retirement.

Lee J. Cobb played the gruff physician whose experiences had turned him from his religion to agnosticism. Then he started to move toward a faith when his daughter-in-law's illness was not, as he feared, serious.

The hour was given texture by Cobb's fine performance and by scenes of Jewish family life. There was a fine touch in the relationship between the doctor and his quietly religious nurse, who helped lead him to solve the retirement problem.

Earlier on NBC, there was a fantastic two-hour production of Charles Dickens' "David Copperfield." The greatest stars of the British stage performed, for the most part, in secondary roles. They included Dame Edith Evans, who came close to stealing the show, Sir Laurence Olivier, Sir Ralph Richardson, Wendy Hiller and Michael Redgrave.

There were so many stories to tell that some portions of Davy's tragic life had to be hurried over quickly—his dreadful childhood with his cruel stepfather for one. There were, in fact, so many stories going that some of the colorful characters really didn't have time to develop full flavor—Mr. Micawber and Uriah Heep, for instance.

Delbert Mann, the director, told the story in flashbacks, which was probably the only way to tackle it, but as a result the takeoff was slow and awkward. It was interesting, however, as an entertainment and as a period piece which was true to the original work.

"The Ballad of the Iron Horse" on ABC Sunday evening was an affectionate recreation of the great days of the American railroads. The narration traced their vital part in developing our nation and building the economy, but stayed throughout on pretty familiar tracks. It was brightened by film made at railroad museums and train collections.

NBC's "Switched-on Symphony" Saturday night was a colorful—very literally colorful—attempt to blend and to make a relationship between classic music and contemporary rock; between a symphony orchestra and some of the current instrumental and singing groups.

It hardly succeeded in tying the two together, but taken as a whole it was a stimulating and surprisingly entertaining program.

"Neither Are We Enemies," NBC's "Hall of Fame" Easter show Friday night, told the story of Judean resistance to Roman occupation in the time of Christ in terms of youth versus age, hot-headed impatient revolutionaries versus mature conservatives who wanted to resist but under law and order.

The treatment, moving out of the New Testament, resulted in a parable, so contemporary was the situation.

"Three Boys on a Safari" which preceded it, was a photographic report on a trip by three youngsters and their mother into remote Africa. The photography was excellent, the places were interesting and best of all, the boys themselves handled the narration, reporting informally what they saw and felt.

Bomb Threats Plague Cincy

CINCINNATI (AP) — Bomb threats continued to plague the Cincinnati area over the weekend.

The latest was received Sunday by an employee of Rink's department store in suburban Mount Healthy and the building was evacuated but police found no bomb.

The security force at Deaconess Hospital here searched the building late Saturday night after a scare was received.

Earlier Saturday, thousands of shoppers were cleared from the huge Tri County Shopping Center in suburban Springdale after a barber in the complex got a telephone call that a bomb would go off within half an hour of the message. A massive traffic jam ensued and an all clear was given after a search.

The area also received several threats late in the week.

Plate Glass Window Death Trap For Birds

WINCHESTER, Eng. (AP) — The big glass picture windows at a computer company's new research laboratory here were a death trap for wild birds. Unable to see the transparent sheets, an average of 12 birds a day broke their necks flying headlong into the windows. Finally a staff member suggested painting black plastic silhouettes of eagles on the windows. Now fewer than one bird a week meets death against the glass.

Government Sues Utility To Halt Thermal Pollution

MIAMI (AP) — The Justice Department has filed suit accusing a Florida utility of running aquatic wildlife by discharging hot water into Biscayne Bay.

In its first suit to halt thermal pollution, the Justice Department said Friday the threat to marine life would be even greater when Florida Power & Light Co. completes conversion of its Turkey Point plant to nuclear power.

The utility uses water from Biscayne Bay to cool its generators. The water, heated by the process, is returned to the bay. U.S. Atty. Robert W. Rust requested immediate action by U.S. District Court to force the utility to modify any operation resulting in the thermal pollution. He also sought a court ordered deadline of 45 days for the firm to submit a plan eliminating destruction of the natural environment of Biscayne Bay.

Court sources said Judge C. Clyde Atkins probably would hear testimony on the suit March 24.

The Justice Department acted on a recommendation by Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel, who warned Florida Power & Light Feb. 24 that court action would be sought if it did not voluntarily halt construction of $8 million, six-mile-long "cooling canal" that would empty heated water from the nuclear generators into the lower end of the bay.

The point of discharge would be near the Biscayne Bay National Monument, about 26 miles south of Miami and President Nixon's bayside home.

A joint federal-state thermal pollution conference had recommended that companies planning nuclear plants be forced to prove the environment would not be damaged.

Court Martial Set In Murder Case

GREAT FALLS, Mont. (AP) — The court martial of S. Sgt. Robert Rausch of Canton, Ohio, on a charge of premeditated murder began its second week today at Malmstrom Air Force Base here.

Rausch, 23, testified Saturday he was in a "dream-like state" after the slaying of another airman, Sgt. Dennis Anderson, 22, of Filer City, Mich. and deluded himself into believing the Oct. 12 slaying never took place. The defense claims Rausch shot Anderson in self-defense.

Views on Television

By CYNTHIA LOWERY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The television networks lined up a busy and varied schedule of entertainment specials over the weekend, with something interesting for just about every taste.

There was Sunday night's "To Confuse the Angel," an original drama by Loring Mandel, on NBC. This was the story of an aging family doctor who had devoted his life to his work and his patients at the expense of his family. He was facing, but resisting, retirement.

Lee J. Cobb played the gruff physician whose experiences had turned him from his religion to agnosticism. Then he started to move toward a faith when his daughter-in-law's illness was not, as he feared, serious.

The hour was given texture by Cobb's fine performance and by scenes of Jewish family life. There was a fine touch in the relationship between the doctor and his quietly religious nurse, who helped lead him to solve the retirement problem.

Earlier on NBC, there was a fantastic two-hour production of Charles Dickens' "David Copperfield." The greatest stars of the British stage performed, for the most part, in secondary roles. They included Dame Edith Evans, who came close to stealing the show, Sir Laurence Olivier, Sir Ralph Richardson, Wendy Hiller and Michael Redgrave.

There were so many stories to tell that some portions of Davy's tragic life had to be hurried over quickly—his dreadful childhood with his cruel stepfather for one. There were, in fact, so many stories going that some of the colorful characters really didn't have time to develop full flavor—Mr. Micawber and Uriah Heep, for instance.

Delbert Mann, the director, told the story in flashbacks, which was probably the only way to tackle it, but as a result the takeoff was slow and awkward. It was interesting, however, as an entertainment and as a period piece which was true to the original work.

"The Ballad of the Iron Horse" on ABC Sunday evening was an affectionate recreation

of the great days of the American railroads. The narration traced their vital part in developing our nation and building the economy, but stayed throughout on pretty familiar tracks. It was brightened by film made at railroad museums and train collections.

NBC's "Switched-on Symphony" Saturday night was a colorful—very literally colorful—attempt to blend and to make a relationship between classic music and contemporary rock; between a symphony orchestra and some of the current instrumental and singing groups.

It hardly succeeded in tying the two together, but taken as a whole it was a stimulating and surprisingly entertaining program.

"Neither Are We Enemies," NBC's "Hall of Fame" Easter show Friday night, told the story of Jewish resistance to Roman occupation in the time of Christ in terms of youth versus age, hot-headed impatient revolutionaries versus mature conservatives who wanted to resist but under law and order.

The treatment, moving out of the New Testament, resulted in a parable, so contemporary was the situation.

"Three Boys on a Safari" which preceded it, was a photographic report on a trip by three youngsters and their mother into remote Africa. The photography was excellent, the places were interesting and best of all, the boys themselves handled the narration, reporting informally what they saw and felt.

Bomb Threats Plague Cincy

CINCINNATI (AP) — Bomb threats continued to plague the Cincinnati area over the weekend.

The latest was received Sunday by an employee of Rink's department store in suburban Mount Healthy and the building was evacuated but police found no bomb.

The security force at Deaconess Hospital here searched the building late Saturday night after a scare was received.

Earlier Saturday, thousands of shoppers were cleared from the huge Tri County Shopping Center in suburban Springdale after a barber in the complex got a telephone call that a bomb would go off within half an hour of the message. A massive traffic jam ensued and an all clear was given after a search.

The area also received several threats late in the week.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Jealous Wife Says He's Senile!

DEAR ABBY: I am 78, and my wife is 73. We've been married 56 years. I am now retired. My problem is widows who live on both ends of my street. On my way to the store I have to pass by the house of one widow who is 75 years old. She has tried to get me into her house by asking me to come in and fix her leaking radiator.

I was able to forestall her plans by walking around the block to get to the store. But recently the widow at the other end of the block (she is 69 years old) asked me to come in and have coffee and freshly baked coffee cake, but I am wise to such tactics, so I always make up some excuse like I am in a hurry.

To avoid such situations I now climb the back fence and take a short cut to the store. Another problem arose. The neighbor's dog tore the seat out of my pants for trespassing onto his yard.

My wife accuses me of getting senile for climbing the back fence and I can't tell her why I do it because she is a very jealous woman. So what do I do?

TRAPPED IN BRIDGEPORT
DEAR TRAPPED: Keep climbing that fence. It's the lesser of the evils. Better to be accused of "senility" than infidelity.

DEAR ABBY: I have written a lot of songs which my friends tell me are better than some of the big hits we have today. Mine aren't of the new far out variety the kids go for. I write the old fashioned love songs with words that rhyme and everybody can understand. And my tunes are easy to sing and easy to remember. Anyway, I must have about 300 songs in all.

I have never tried to get any of my songs published, and that's why I am writing to you, Abby. Could you please send me the names and addresses of some famous song writers? I would like to send them my songs and possibly they could help me get them published. Of course I would be willing to share the profits with anyone who could help me if I BECAME A SUCCESS. Thank you.

SONG WRITER
DEAR SONG WRITER: The LAST person to whom I would advise you to send unpublished songs would be a "famous song writer." His lawyers have undoubtedly instructed him to return all such material unopened in order to protect himself. Furthermore, no one

Questions Taxpayers Ask

Q — My only income last year was from a summer job between semesters at college. To get a refund, can I just send in my W-2 or do I have to fill out a whole tax form?

A — You must file a tax return to obtain any refund due. Copies of Form 1040 and instructions are available at local IRS offices as well as many banks and post offices if you did not receive one in the mail.

If you read the instructions, you should have little difficulty completing your return.

Q — What's the tax difference between alimony and child support payments?

A — Alimony is considered taxable income to the recipient and has to be reported. Alimony payments are allowed as a tax deduction for payers who itemize.

Child support payments on the other hand are not taxable and do not have to be reported for tax purposes. No deduction is allowed for these payments, but they might be a factor in determining who can claim the child as dependent.

Divorce or separation agreements usually specify whether a payment is alimony or for child support.

Q — My brother and I each contribute 1-3 to the support of our grandfather, he furnishes the remainder of his support from his Social Security. Can either of us claim him as a dependent?

A — The support test for claiming your grandfather as a dependent has been met since each of you contributes over 10 per cent of his total support and the sum of your contributions was over half of his support.

When this and the other dependency support tests are met, then either of you, but not both, may claim your grandfather as an exemption. The person not claiming the exemption should complete Form 2120, Multiple Support Declaration, which should be filed with the return of the one claiming the exemption. Form 2120 can be obtained from your local IRS office.

Q — I lost the forms needed to deposit taxes withheld from my employee's wages. Where can I get more?

A — Write to either your IRS district office or the service center where you file your returns. Give your business name and address and employer identification number.

Be sure to indicate the type of tax and the taxable period for which you need the Federal Tax Deposit forms.

Q — I drive over 40 miles a day going back and forth to work. Can I take a mileage deduction for this?

A — No, commuting is a personal expense under our tax laws and not deductible. However, you can deduct the state gas tax you pay as a result of your driving.

A table to help you figure this deduction is in the 1040 tax package on Page A-1. The deduction is based on the gas tax rate in your state and the number of miles you drive.

Q — I'm claiming a deduction for the braces my daughter needs to straighten her teeth. Should I send in the dental bills I've paid with my return?

A — No, but keep them for your tax records. They will be needed if this item on your return is questioned.

Q — Are tips considered taxable?

A — Yes and they must be included in gross income. Also, cash tips of $20 or more that you receive in a month while working for any one employer should be reported to that employer. This will enable your employer to withhold Social Security and income tax on tips from your salary.

Q — The address shown on the label that came with my return is wrong. Should I correct it?

A — Yes, make the change right on the label and send it back on the return you file so that IRS records can be corrected.

Q — I have two sources of income, a regular job and parttime work for myself. Do I have to pay both social security and self-employment tax?

A — It depends on the amount of your wages. The maximum amount of income subject to social security and self-employment tax is $7,800. If your wages reached that total, then no self-employment tax has to be paid.

If your wages were under $7,800, then you should pay self-employment tax on part or all of your earnings from self-employment but only if your net earnings from self-employment are $400 or more. Remember the combined total subject to social security and self-employment tax is $7,800.

Q — I'm itemizing deductions. Can I deduct the service charges I pay in installment purchases?

A — The interest portion of service or finance charges is deductible. If this amount is not stated separately, you may deduct the lesser of an amount equal to six percent of the average monthly unpaid balance or the actual charge for the year.

DEAR ABBY: The woman who asked your opinion on "wife swapping," then signed herself, "LOVES HIM," will soon be hating him, and herself, if she goes along with his crummy idea.

I went along with it for 10 months, and NEVER have I met such a collection of dull, insipid creeps in my life! They were all little boys trying to show each other what big "men" they were. Most of the wives weren't attractive enough to get a second glance from another man, so they allowed their equally insecure husbands to trade them like "toys."

But, guess what, Abby? When we "swapped," I just sat and listened to these sad little boys pour their hearts out, after informing them that I was not a "swinger." None of them was angry. They seemed to feel that "sex" was available everywhere, but good, intelligent, interested listeners were few.

I don't feel degraded. Just terribly disgusted with myself for not being able to judge my second husband better.

We're divorced now. I finally decided that I'd rather scrub floors than live with a swinger. They're SICK.

Questions Taxpayers Ask

Q — My only income last year was from a summer job between semesters at college. To get a refund, can I just send in my W-2 or do I have to fill out a whole tax form?

A — You must file a tax return to obtain any refund due. Copies of Form 1040 and instructions are available at local IRS offices as well as many banks and post offices if you did not receive one in the mail.

If you read the instructions, you should have little difficulty completing your return.

Q — What's the tax difference between alimony and child support payments?

A — Alimony is considered taxable income to the recipient and has to be reported. Alimony payments are allowed as a tax deduction for payers who itemize.

Child support payments on the other hand are not taxable and do not have to be reported for tax purposes. No deduction is allowed for these payments, but they might be a factor in determining who can claim the child as dependent.

Divorce or separation agreements usually specify whether a payment is alimony or for child support.

Q — My brother and I each contribute 1-3 to the support of our grandfather, he furnishes the remainder of his support from his Social Security. Can either of us claim him as a dependent?

A — The support test for claiming your grandfather as a dependent has been met since each of you contributes over 10 per cent of his total support and the sum of your contributions was over half of his support.

When this and the other dependency support tests are met, then either of you, but not both, may claim your grandfather as an exemption. The person not claiming the exemption should complete Form 2120, Multiple Support Declaration, which should be filed with the return of the one claiming the exemption. Form 2120 can be obtained from your local IRS office.

Q — I lost the forms needed to deposit taxes withheld from my employee's wages. Where can I get more?

A — Write to either your IRS district office or the service center where you file your returns. Give your business name and address and employer identification number.

Be sure to indicate the type of tax and the taxable period for which you need the Federal Tax Deposit forms.

Q — I drive over 40 miles a day going back and forth to work. Can I take a mileage deduction for this?

A — No, commuting is a personal expense under our tax laws and not deductible. However, you can deduct the state gas tax you pay as a result of your driving.

A table to help you figure this deduction is in the 1040 tax package on Page A-1. The deduction is based on the gas tax rate in your state and the number of miles you drive.

Q — I'm claiming a deduction for the braces my daughter needs to straighten her teeth. Should I send in the dental bills I've paid with my return?

A — No, but keep them for your tax records. They will be needed if this item on your return is questioned.

Q — Are tips considered taxable?

A — Yes and they must be included in gross income. Also, cash tips of $20 or more that you receive in a month while working for any one employer should be reported to that employer. This will enable your employer to withhold Social Security and income tax on tips from your salary.

Q — The address shown on the label that came with my return is wrong. Should I correct it?

A — Yes, make the change right on the label and send it back on the return you file so that IRS records can be corrected.

Q — I have two sources of income, a regular job and parttime work for myself. Do I have to pay both social security and self-employment tax?

A — It depends on the amount of your wages. The maximum amount of income subject to social security and/or self-employment tax is $7,800. If your wages reached that total, then no self-employment tax has to be paid.

If your wages were under $7,800, then you should pay self-employment tax on part or all of your earnings from self-employment but only if your net earnings from self-employment are $400 or more. Remember the combined total subject to social security and self-employment tax is $7,800.

Q — I'm itemizing deductions. Can I deduct the service charges I pay in installment purchases?

A — The interest portion of service or finance charges is deductible. If this amount is not stated separately, you may deduct the lesser of an amount equal to six percent of the average monthly unpaid balance or the actual charge for the year.

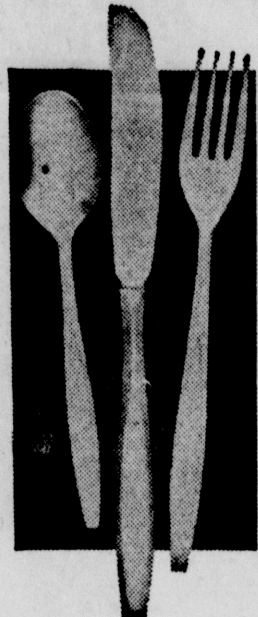

Burglars Have Tough Luck
COLUMBUS, Ky. (AP) — Burglars came up short in their break-in at the post office in Columbus.

The intruders set off an explosive but police said it was so weak it failed to open the safe.

The noise aroused a deputy sheriff who lived nearby and his gunfire routed the burglars.

Zane Trace Pioneers Dump Skyvue

Welch Triggers Vinning Effort

Exhibiting true tournament form before a near capacity crowd at the Columbus Exposition Center Coliseum, Zane Trace turned back Skyvue, 75-66, to win the regional championship Saturday.

The Pioneers now become the second Ross County team to ever reach the state tournament. Southeastern twice turned the trick, but never got past its first state journey foe.

Trace will play Sebring from the Canton District at 1:30 p.m. Friday.

If you want tickets for the Class A high school state semifinal basketball game, forget it.

Zane Trace coach Ron Hall said today he was allocated 1200 for Zane Trace fans.

"We don't have enough to take care of our own fans, let alone anybody else," Hall said today. The tickets went on sale at the school at 8 a.m. today and Pioneer fans were beginning to line up Sunday night to be assured of getting seats in St. Johns Arena.

Trace's win came on a sterling performance from Jeff Reisinger, the 6-foot-7 All Ohio candidate, a fine shooting exhibition by Chip Maxwell, a 6-foot guard and the fourth quarter relief effort of John Welch, a 5-foot-10 second string guard.

REISINGER dominated the rebounding, pulling down 16 missed shots and scored 30 points for the winners, canning 14 of 21 field goal attempts and sinking both chances he had at the foul line.

Maxwell, who consistently contributes the most error-free floor game on both ends of the hardwood, sank nine of ten shots from the field and four of five at the foul line for a 22 point total.

Welch, the third leading scorer in the game for the Pioneers, came off the bench in the second half and sparked the fourth quarter rally that brought the Pioneers from four points behind to the nine point victory margin.

A junior, Welch showed the poise of a veteran, making four of four shots from the field and adding one of two chances at the free throw line for his nine point total.

Tom Davis, the "little general" who directs the Pioneer offense, scored eight points. Three of his points were on crucial, pressure packed charity tosses in the closing minutes that enabled the winners to put the game on ice.

Dave Hammond, who led the Pioneer scoring in the first regional tournament game against Granville with 25 points, was held to only four Saturday, making two of eight field goal attempts.

DICK Damron scored two points. Brad Kerns, the only other player for the Pioneers in the close tournament tilt, was scoreless although he started the game.

Skyvue showed plenty of hustle and speed to make up for its lack of size and scared the Pioneers before succumbing in the closing minutes of the game.

Eric Heft, a 6-foot-1 forward, was one of the outstanding players on the floor and finished with game high scoring honors of 31 points. He made 13 of 21 attempts from the field and had a perfect 5-for-5 performance at the foul line.

The outside shooting of Virgil Cecil, a 5-foot-11 guard, accounted for 12 points. He was five for 12 from the field and two for four at the line.

Tom Hendershot, the tallest Golden Hawk at 6-foot-3, scored 10 points. John Huffman marked six and Steve Bishop seven.

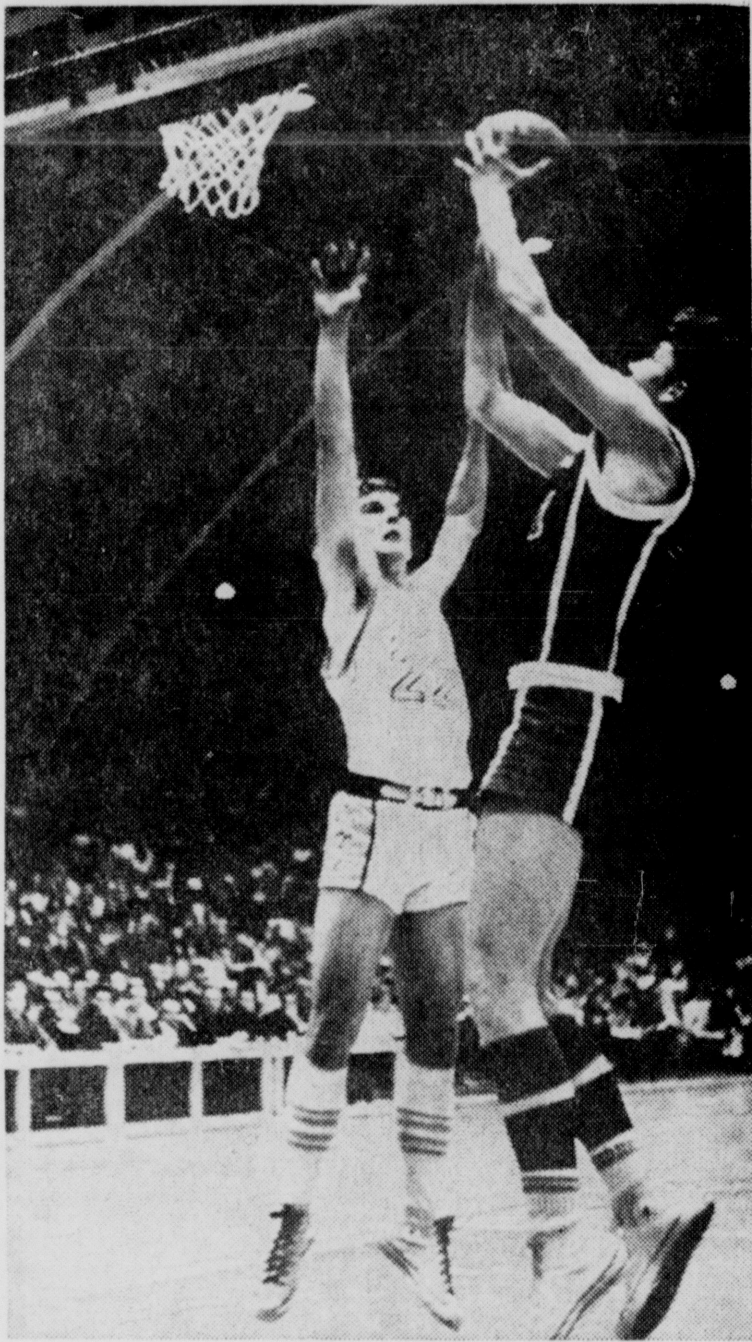

Skyvue scored the first bucket of the game, but Zane Trace came back and managed to lead for most of the period. Reisinger tallied the first nine points for the Pioneers and at the end of the first quarter had accounted for 13 of the 20 points on the board for the Pioneers. Heft scored nine of the 18 points that Skyvue had in the first period.

IN the second eight minutes of play, the score was tied six times before the Hawks edged out to a four point halftime lead, 42-38.

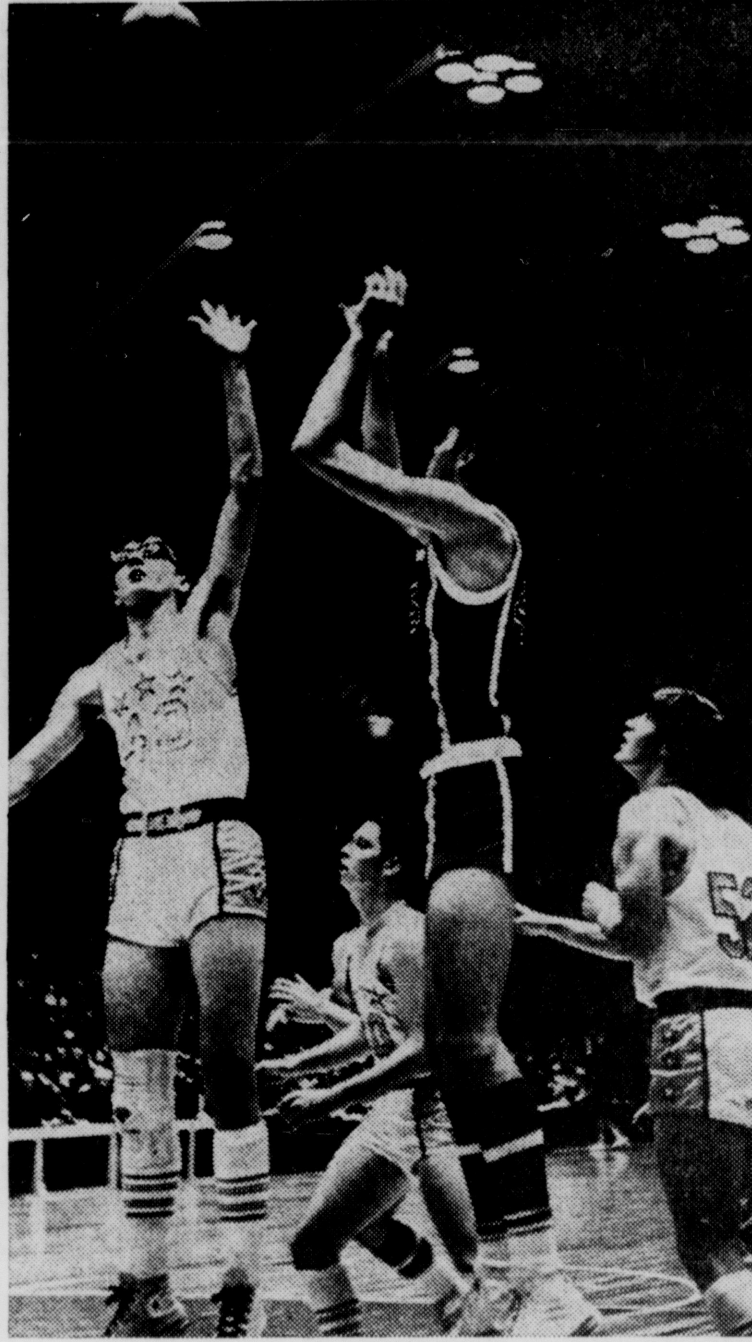

At halftime, Reisinger had 20 points, Maxwell 14, Hammond two and Damron two. For Skyvue Heft had 20 points, Hendershot seven, Huffman and Cecil six each and Bishop three.

Both teams showed some "tournament jitters" in the initial half. Skyvue threw the ball away eight times and Zane Trace made seven turnovers.

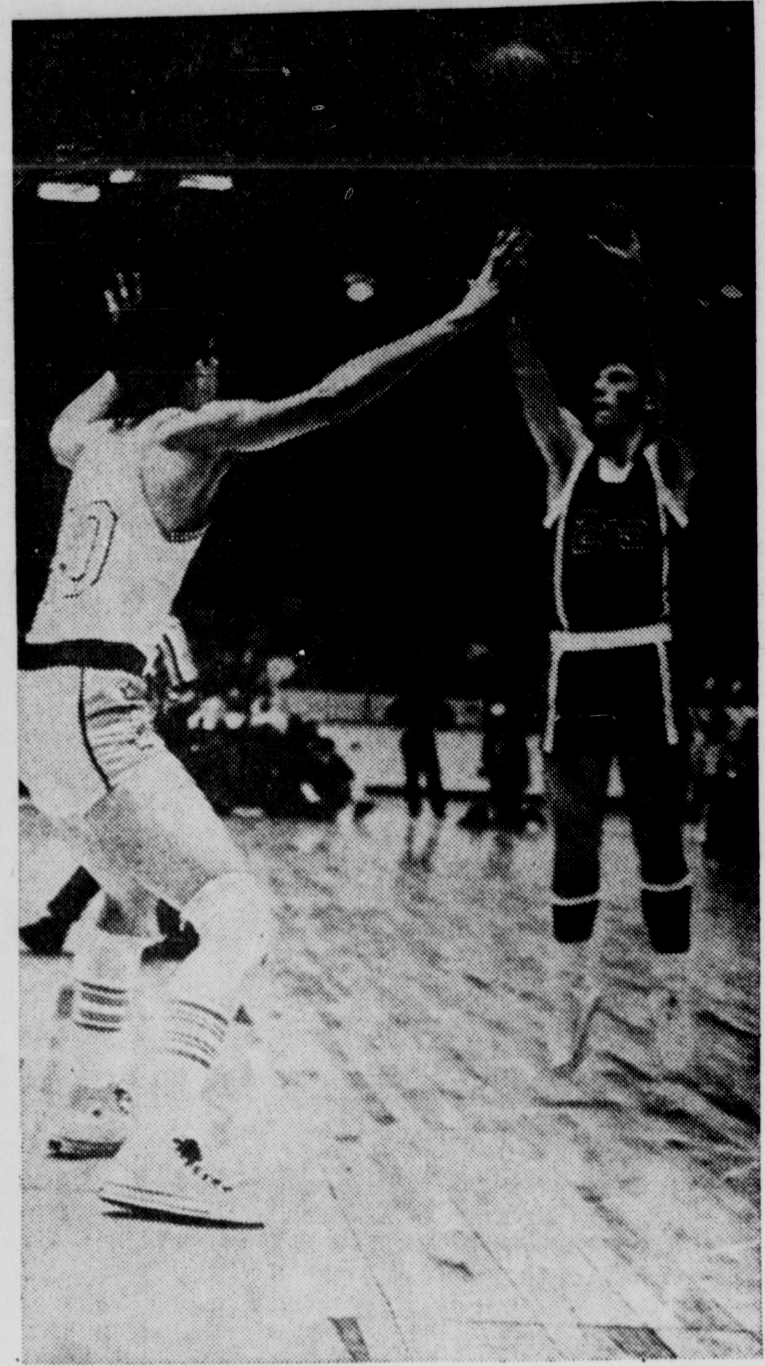

The second half was nearly error-free. Skyvue led for the entire third quarter — never ahead by more than six or by less than two. At the end of the quarter the Hawks maintained a four point lead, 56-52. (Continued on Page 11)

TWO FOR HAMMOND — Dave Hammond, the sophomore forward for Zane Trace, outmaneuvers Eric Heft (22) of Skyvue for two points. Heft was the outstanding player for the Golden Hawks, scoring 31 points and holding Hammond to just four.

REISINGER SCORES — Jeff Reisinger puts a jump shot high over the outstretched arms of Tom Hendershot (40), the Skyvue center. Also in the action are John Huffman (10) and Steve Bishop (52), both Skyvue players.

LITTLE GENERAL SHOOTS — Tom Davis (25), the 5-foot-6 guard who guides the Zane Trace offense, pumps a 20-footer toward the basket during the Saturday regional championship game with Skyvue. Guarding Davis is Tom Hendershot (40), the Golden Hawks 6-3 center.

Jacksonville Favored In NCAA Clash

Artis Gilmore and Pembroke Burrows, Jacksonville's two 7-footers, suddenly look a lot taller to St. Bonaventure.

The Bonnies, shattered by the loss of All-American center Bob Lanier, are suddenly the underdogs against Jacksonville in their NCAA semifinal Thursday night (7:40 p.m., EST) at College Park, Md.

The fourth-ranked Dolphins, college basketball's Cinderella team, surprised top-ranked Kentucky 106-100 Saturday to reach the round of four, while the Bonnies beat Villanova 97-94.

Lanier was injured midway through the second half, after scoring 26 points in the East Regional final at Columbia, S.C. Lanier underwent successful surgery for torn ligaments in his right knee Sunday in Buffalo, N.Y.

The Bonnies, 25-1, went through most of the season using only six men. With Lanier out, the tallest, 6-foot-5 forward

Matt Gantt, has shifted to center.

The Dolphins, buoyed by their stunning victory over Kentucky, in the Midwest Regional finals at Columbus, Ohio, now are only two steps away from a shot at the national championship, with UCLA the probable opponent in the final game next Saturday afternoon.

The Bruins, striving for their fourth straight national title, routed Utah State 101-79 in the West Regional final at Seattle. The second-ranked Bruins, 26-2, face fifth-ranked New Mexico State, which whipped Drake 87-78 in the Midwest Regional finals at Lawrence, Kan.

UCLA eliminated the Aggies for the past two years when the Aggies were in the West region but Bruins Coach John Wooden isn't underestimating them.

"They have a senior team and I know they'll be really inspired," Wooden said.

In the NIT tournament in New York Sunday, Pistol Pete Maravich dropped two foul shots with nine seconds left to play in LSU's 83-82 first-round nailbiter against Georgetown. Those two clutch shots won it for LSU, in what otherwise was a lackluster game for Maravich. He scored only 20 points, the second lowest total of his three-year varsity career.

NEW YORK (AP) — The day of Pete Maravich, the playmaker, seems over. The Oklahoma Sooners can look forward Tuesday night to the return of Pistol Pete, the shooter.

It isn't that Maravich isn't the best passer in college basketball; it's just that without his shooting up to his nation-leading 46.6 point-per-game average, the Louisiana State Tigers barely got by heavy underdog Georgetown 83-82 Sunday in the first round of the National Invitational Tournament.

Oklahoma just managed itself by slipping past Louisville 74-73 in Sunday's second game.

So it will be the Tigers and Sooners in Tuesday's double-header nightcap after tournament favorite Marquette faces Utah in the first game.

The most local quarter-finals begin tonight as St. John's of New York meets Georgia Tech after first round upsets Army and Manhattan clash in the opener of a twinbill.

The semifinals are Thursday and the nationally televised final Saturday afternoon.

Maravich, who holds the career college scoring record, had been waiting all season for this first Madison Square Garden appearance, and New Yorkers had been waiting impatiently to see this much-publicized three-time All-American.

In fact, a national television audience was also watching with the 16,021 in the stands, but Maravich proved a disappointment, as he only took 16 shots, managed only 20 points—only 93-90; Army upset Cincinnati 72-67, and Utah defeated Duke 78-75.

In fact, a national television audience was also watching with the 16,021 in the stands, but Maravich proved a disappointment, as he only took 16 shots, managed only 20 points—only once has he scored less in a college game—and lost the ball several times while dribbling.

"We told Pete not to do any shooting," explains his father, Press Maravich, who also coaches the Tigers. "He was to be the playmaker."

Still, it was Pete's two free throws with nine seconds left that gave the Tigers an uncatchable 83-80 lead after his brief spurt of nine points and two half court passes for baskets had put LSU 21-18, ahead to stay 73-65.

The LSU big men did their job as Danny Hester scored 30 points, Al Sanders 15 and Bill Newton 11, and they also controlled the backboards against foul-plagued Georgetown, 18-8, whose Art White scored 28.

The Sooners, now 19-8, one of the unheralded teams of the tournament, were no ball of fire either in their first NIT appearance, but Garfield Heard's 34 points and a Louisville drought nulled Oklahoma through.

The Cardinals closing at 18-9, managed only two points—a last-second basket—in the final four minutes and 18 seconds.

REGIONAL CHAMPS — Zane Trace Coach Ron Hall holds the tournament bracket during the trophy presentation Saturday following the Pioneers' 75-66 victory over Skyvue. Washington Senators Keep Improving

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer
POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — What happened to the Senators last year?

Wherever Washington Manager Ted Williams goes in spring training that's the first question popped at him. Williams, shying away from the credit, explains it this way:

"Last year for the first time they realized they were that good."

What's missing in that pat answer is Williams—for it's generally acknowledged that last year for the first time the Senators realized they were that good because Williams told them they were that good.

It's difficult, therefore, not to go along when Williams says this year's club "will be better. We can make runs—we proved that. But we've got to have improved pitching. If we get that we could be a factor."

That, however, seems a long shot—even if the opinion does come from a guy who last year, in his rookie season as a manager, transformed the perennial cellar-dwellers into a club that finished over .500 for the first time since 1952.

What happened to the Senators last year was that, after finishing the 1968 season with a 65-96 won-lost record, Williams talked, talked, talked, taught, taught, taught, and brought in a fourth-place club with a 86-76 mark.

But the talking and teaching are only two of the three T's. The other T is for talent—and as much as Williams seems to be able to get the most out of a player there just do not seem to be enough quality players to get the most out of.

There is hitting and power in an outfield of Frank Howard, the towering slugger; Del Unser, and Lee Maye. And first baseman Mike Epstein and third baseman Ken McMullen provide much the same.

Howard was the big stick for the Senators last year with 48 homers, 111 runs batted in and a .296 batting average. Epstein, under Williams' handling finally began to live up to his credentials with 30 homers and 85 RBI to go with a .278 average.

McMullen provided 19 homers and 87 RBI with a .272 average. Unser swung a light but consistent .286 bat and Maye impressed Williams enough after being acquired from Cleveland to become the favorite for the third spot.

At shortstop is Ed Brinkman, labeled good-field, no-hit, who last year under Williams pulled his average up to .267.

"I consider that a pretty good hitting line-up," Williams said.

And, hopefully, there will be improvement at the two other positions, second base and catching. At second holdovers Bernie Allen and Tim Cullen will be battling Dave Nelson, another Cleveland acquisition, who could add one missing commodity—speed.

The catching department, which provided little hitting last season, has been bolstered by the addition of John Roseboro from Minnesota. He likely will share the duties with Paul Casanova.

As for pitching, the one known commodity is Dave Bosman, who posted a 14-5 record last season and had a 2.19 earned run average—the best in the American League. But there was little but disappointment behind Bosman.

"(Joe) Coleman and (Jim) Hannan" said Williams, "are both better than they were last year. Together they won 19. And do you know how many they lost? They lost 19. A lot depends on how much better they are."

The fourth starter likely will be George Brunet, who was 8-12 with California and Seattle last season but has Williams' eye. Also scheduled for a long look is Jan Dukes, who came up at the end of last year and put together a 2.45 ERA in eight games.

The cast taken as a whole, however, likely will be much the same as last season and, therefore, it seems very likely the finish will be also.

Chaminade Team Eyes Cage Title

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Coach Jim Turvene of Dayton Chaminade, the Ohio Class AA High School Basketball Tournament title favorite, says his Eagles are taller, more experienced and deeper than his 1966 state kings.

But he isn't about to compare them with that team. He's more concerned about Friday's state tournament semifinal foe, Waverly. Chaminade matches its 25-0 record against Waverly's 22-2 mark at 9:30 p.m.

Rossford (24-0) and Boardman (23-2) play at 5:30 p.m. in Class AA.

In the Class A semifinals Friday, Mansfield St. Peter's (26-1) plays Cincinnati Lincoln Heights (21-4) at 11:30 a.m. and Zane Trace of Ross County (26 - 0) tangles with Sebring (23 - 2) at 1:30 p.m.

The Class A finals are 2 p.m. and the Class AA title game at 7:30 p.m. Saturday.

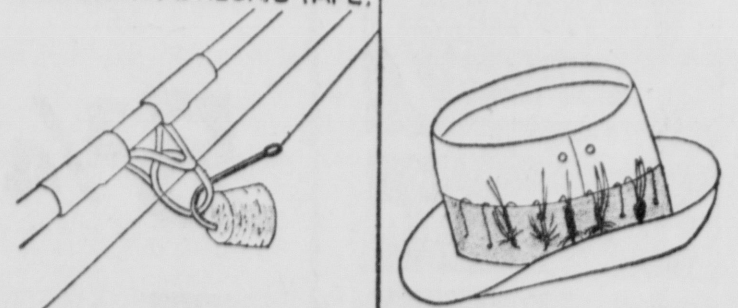

"The difference was that the 1966 team won it," Turvene said. "A true analysis will have to wait until after the state tournament."

Turvene said the extra pressure of being The Associated Press Class AA poll champion hasn't bothered his players.

"It's a matter of pride," he said. "They're trying to uphold that recognition."

The semifinals are Thursday and the nationally televised final Saturday afternoon.

Maravich, who holds the career college scoring record, had been waiting all season for this first Madison Square Garden appearance, and New Yorkers had been waiting impatiently to see this much-publicized three time All-American.

In fact, a national television audience was also watching with the 16,021 in the stands, but Maravich proved a disappointment, as he only took 16 shots, managed only 20 points—only once has he scored less in a college game—and lost the ball several times while dribbling.

"We told Pete not to do any shooting," explains his father, Press Maravich, who also coaches the Tigers. "He was to be the playmaker."

Still, it was Pete's two free throws with nine seconds left that gave the Tigers an uncatchable 83-80 lead after his brief spurt of nine points and two half court passes for baskets had put LSU 21-8 ahead to stay 73-65.

The LSU big men did do their job as Danny Hester scored 30 points, Al Sanders 15 and Bill Newton 11, and they also controlled the backboards against foul-plagued Georgetown, 18-8, whose Art White scored 28.

The Sooners, now 19-8, one of the unheralded teams of the tournament, were no ball of fire either in their first NIT appearance, but Garfield Heard's 34 points and a Louisville drought nullified Oklahoma through.

The Cardinals closing at 18-9, managed only two points—a last-second basket—in the final four minutes and 18 seconds.

Chaminade Team Eyes Cage Title

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Coach Jim Turvene of Dayton Chaminade, the Ohio Class AA High School Basketball Tournament title favorite, says his Eagles are taller, more experienced and deeper than his 1966 state kings.

But he isn't about to compare them with that team. He's more concerned about Friday's state tournament semifinal foe, Waverly. Chaminade matches its 25-0 record against Waverly's 22-2 mark at 9:30 p.m.

Rossford (24-0) and Boardman (23-2) play at 5:30 p.m. in Class AA.

In the Class A semifinals Friday, Mansfield St. Peter's (26-1) plays Cincinnati Lincoln Heights (21-4) at 11:30 a.m. and Zane Trace of Ross County (26-0) tangles with Sebring (23-2) at 1:30 p.m.

The Class A finals are 2 p.m. and the Class AA title game at 7:30 p.m. Saturday.

"The difference was that the 1966 team won it," Turvene said. "A true analysis will have to wait until after the state tournament."

Turvene said the extra pressure of being The Associated Press Class AA poll champion hasn't bothered his players.

"It's a matter of pride," he said. "They're trying to uphold that recognition."

The 1971 amateur public links golf championship sanctioned by the U.S. Golf Association will be held at the Papago Golf Course in Phoenix, Ariz.

REGIONAL CHAMPS — Zane Trace Coach Ron Hall holds the tournament bracket during the trophy presentation Saturday following the Pioneers' 75-66 victory over Skyvue. Washington Senators Keep Improving

By MIKE RATHET Associated Press Sports Writer

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — What happened to the Senators last year?

Wherever Washington Manager Ted Williams goes in spring training that's the first question popped at him. Williams, shying away from the credit, explains it this way:

"Last year for the first time they realized they were that good."

What's missing in that pat answer is Williams—for it's generally acknowledged that last year for the first time the Senators realized they were that good because Williams told them they were that good.

It's difficult, therefore, not to go along with Williams says this year's club "will be better. We can make runs—we proved that. But we've got to have improved pitching. If we get that we could be a factor."

That, however, seems a long shot—even if the opinion does come from a guy who last year, in his rookie season as a manager, transformed the perennial cellar-dwellers into a club that finished over .500 for the first time since 1952.

What happened to the Senators last year was that, after finishing the 1968 season with a 65-96 won-lost record, Williams talked, talked, talked, taught, taught, taught, and brought in a fourth-place club with a 86-76 mark.

But the talking and teaching are only two of the three T's. The other T is for talent—and as much as Williams seems to be able to get the most out of a player there just do not seem to be enough quality players to get the most out of.

There is hitting and power in an outfield of Frank Howard, the towering slugger; Del Unser, and Lee Maye. And first baseman Mike Epstein and third baseman Ken McMullen provide much the same.

Howard was the big stick for the Senators last year with 48 homers, 111 runs batted in and a .296 batting average. Epstein, under Williams' handling finally began to live up to his credentials with 30 homers and 85 RBI to go with a .278 average.

McMullen provided 19 homers and 87 RBI with a .272 average. Unser swung a light but consistent .286 bat and Maye impressed Williams enough after being acquired from Cleveland to become the favorite for the third spot.

At shortstop is Ed Brinkman, labeled good-field, no-hit, who last year under Williams pulled his average up to .267.

"I consider that a pretty good hitting line-up," Williams said.

And, hopefully, there will be improvement at the two other positions, second base and catching. At second holdovers Bernie Allen and Tim Cullen will be battling Dave Nelson, another Cleveland acquisition, who could add one missing commodity—speed.

The catching department, which provided little hitting last season, has been bolstered by the addition of John Roseboro from Minnesota. He likely will share the duties with Paul Casanova.

As for pitching, the one known commodity is Dave Bosman, who posted a 14-5 record last season and had a 2.19 earned run average—the best in the American League. But there was little but disappointment behind Bosman.

"(Joe) Coleman and (Jim) Hannan" said Williams, "are both better than they were last year. Together they won 19. And do you know how many they lost? They lost 19. A lot depends on how much better they are."

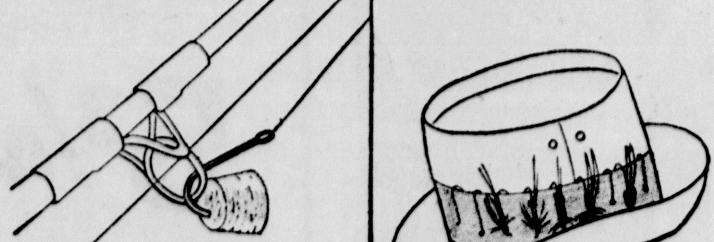

The fourth starter likely will be George Brunet, who was 8-12 with California and Seattle last season but has Williams' eye. Also scheduled for a long look is Jan Dukes, who came up at the end of last year and put together a 2.45 ERA in eight games.

The cast taken as a whole, however, likely will be much the same as last season and, therefore, it seems very likely the finish will be also.

BIG LEAGUE PARK AGAIN — This is County Stadium in Milwaukee, former home of the Braves, which will again become a major league ball park with the Seattle Pilots moving their American League franchise to the Wisconsin city.

Report Seattle Pilots Set For Move To Milwaukee

NEW YORK (AP) — Milwaukee, which inherited the Braves from Boston in 1953 and lost them to Atlanta four years ago, is about to get another baseball team.

The Associated Press has learned from unimpeachable sources that the financially troubled Seattle Pilots' American League franchise will be shifted to Milwaukee for the start of the 1970 season.

The sources said the current owners, headed by William R. Daley of Cleveland, have the nine American League votes necessary to assure the transfer and the move will be approved at a league meeting Tuesday morning in Tampa, Fla.

In Milwaukee, Allan "Bud" Selig, head of Milwaukee Brewers, Inc., the group which will acquire the Pilots, said he would be in Tampa for Tuesday's meeting.

American League President Joe Cronin said early today in Sarasota, Fla., that the imminent franchise shift was "all news to me. I don't have any information. No vote has been taken. You have more information on this than I have."

Any franchise shift undoubtedly would be followed by a court battle. In fact, a show cause hearing is scheduled in Seattle on Thursday on a temporary order restraining any actions aimed at moving the Pilots out of town.

The order was granted on a suit by Alfred J. Scheppe, a Seattle attorney. The action also named the Bank of California, where Scheppe said his check for two 1970 season tickets was deposited. Scheppe said the suit enjoins the present owners from doing anything to move the franchise before Thursday.

He said the suit does not enjoin the American League from approving the transfer, but does bar action by the owners to carry it out.

Also last week, Seattle, King County and the State of Washington all mapped plans to join in a number of suits aimed at keeping the Pilots in Seattle.

Zane Trace

With 5:23 to go in the game, Welch zipped a 15-foot jump shot through the cords that gave the Pioneers a 60-59 lead. From that point on the winners were never behind.

A minute after his first bucket, Welch canned another 15-footer that gave the Pioneers a three point lead.

Skyvuc countered with a basket by Bishop, but again Welch found the range to widen the margin to three. Jeff Reisinger widened the margin to five at 66-61 before Skyvuc scored again.

With less than a minute and a half to go in the game, Welch drove in for the winning basket. He made the shot and was dumped on the floor by a Skyvuc defender trying to prevent the tally. Welch made it a three point play by sinking the foul shot.

From then on the Pioneers scored all their points at the charity stripe as Skyvuc fouled quickly and frequently to prevent any stalling tactics. But the Pioneers were able to convert the scoring opportunities the fouls provided for their final 9-point victory margin.

Skyvuc was dumped from the tournament trail with a 24-2 final season record. The only other loss of the season for the Hawks was to Frontier Local by a 66-65 margin. Frontier was the team that Zane Trace beat in the first game of last year's regional tournament at Athens.

The Pioneers will carry a 26-0 record into St. John Arena Friday, Sebring, the team they play, has a 23-2 mark.

Indiana Pacers Defeat Carolina

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS — The Indiana Pacers are up in first place but the rest of the American Basketball Association's playoff scrambles are up in the air.

The powerful Pacers clinched the Eastern Division flag Sunday night with a 114-110 victory over Carolina. The Cougars fell one game behind second-place Kentucky, which trounced Dallas 146-125, and had their lead over fourth-place New York sliced to 1 1/2 games. The Nets were idle.

In the Western Division, Denver whipped Miami 126-111 to remain two games ahead of Washington, which edged New Orleans 124-122. But Dallas' loss to Kentucky dropped the Chaparrals one game behind Washington. Surging Los Angeles, bringing up the rear, pulled to within one game of fourth-place New Orleans with a 117-110 triumph over Pittsburgh.

GRANVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Baldwin-Wallace won the Ohio Conference Indoor Track and Field championship at Denison University Saturday, amassing 139 points to 122 by second-place Mount Union.

B-W's Dave Coad cleared the pole vault in 15 feet, one inch for one of three league records set.

Atlanta Hawks, L.A. Lakers Win NBA Tilts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS — The Atlanta Hawks are playing it hot and the Los Angeles Lakers are playing it stubborn in the National Basketball Association's Western Division race.

The Hawks whipped Phoenix 126-111 Sunday for their fifth victory in the last six games. Walt Hazard fired in 36 points, hitting 17-of-23 shots from the field.

The nationally televised game was virtually decided at the start of the second quarter when the Hawks outscored the Suns 9-2 and took a 47-32 lead. The victory lowered the Hawks' magic number to three for the Western Division title.

In Los Angeles five hours later, the Lakers pulled to within a game of the Hawks by beating the New York Knicks 106-101. The Lakers led for the first 40 minutes but then fought off a last-gasp rally by the Knicks, who clinched the Eastern Division title Saturday.

Jerry West scored 38 points for the Lakers and Dave DeBusschere hit 31 for New York.

In other NBA games Sunday, Chicago routed Milwaukee 130-107; Cincinnati edged Seattle 116-113; Baltimore beat Boston 130-121, and San Diego whipped Philadelphia 137-128.

In the NBA Saturday, the New York Knicks beat San Diego 119-103 and Chicago stopped Detroit 111-96.

Chicago's Bob Love poured in 47 points to lead the Bulls as the Bucks completed their last home game before three games on the road before the Eastern Division playoffs.

Lew Alcindore scored 30 points for the Bucks before leaving the game in the fourth quarter with an apparent hand injury.

The Royals' triumph over Seattle was their first in six games this year. Oscar Robertson helped break the jinx for Cincinnati by ripping in 14 points in the second quarter.

Robertson, the game's high scorer with 37 points, added 10 more in the final period after the Sonics tied the score.

Stinson Hits Homers For Dodgers

By TOM SALADINO Associated Press Sports Writer

Bob Stinson's awesome power display Sunday might have won him a job with the Los Angeles Dodgers but it certainly didn't help Mike Whitson's chances any.

Stinson, a rookie catcher trying to stick with the parent Dodgers, crashed two home runs in one inning—an explosive nine-run 17th inning—leading the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 14-6 exhibition baseball victory over the Washington Senators.

A switch hitter, Stinson, batting left-handed, opened the big inning with a slam over the right field wall off Whitson. As the Dodgers batted around, Stinson came up again and bombed another clout, this one a two-run shot, capping the uprising. And again it was off right-hander Whitson, who absorbed all the punishment in the inning.

Stinson, who hit .281 at Spokane last year, cracked only six homers for the Pacific Coast League club in 117 games and none in a brief stay with the Dodgers at the end of the season.

In another wild extra inning affair, the Oakland A's exploded for seven runs in the 11th inning in stopping Seattle's B squad 12-7. Joe Rudi, Tito Francona and rookie Jim Driscoll slammed homers for the A's.

Non-roster rookie catcher Bart Zeller drilled an 11th-inning single, snapping a 1-1 tie and sending the St. Louis Cardinals to a 2-1 triumph over the Chicago White Sox. Another receiver, veteran John Edwards, knocked in the winner with an eighth-inning single in Houston's 5-4 victory over Minnesota. It was the winless Twins eighth straight loss.

Ron Woods slammed a two-run triple in the 11th inning, sending the New York Yankees to a 9-8 triumph over Montreal. Ron Fairly belted a home run for the Expos.

The Chicago Cubs rode the home run punch of Johnny Callison and Billy Williams to a 7-5 decision over San Francisco.

Seattle exploded for seven runs in the fourth inning and coasted past San Diego, 8-1.

Up-And-Coming Dick Lotz Winner Of Monsanto Open

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Dick Lotz turned to golf because he was told to, almost quit and wouldn't want to do it all over again.

"Our dad told us to stick to golf and stay away from baseball," the personable, 27-year-old Lotz said Sunday after scoring his biggest victory in the $150,000 Monsanto Open Golf Tournament.

Lotz, the son of a former Pacific Coast League pitcher, came on the tour along with brother John in 1964 and didn't make more than $3,000 in his next three seasons.

"It was pretty miserable," he said. "If I had to do it over again, well, I don't think I'd do it."

He won about $15,000 the next year—"just about made expenses"—vaulted to $23,000 the next season, $38,000 last year, including a victory in the $50,000 Alameda County Open, and then came into his own this season.

"For the last four weeks, he's been the best player on the tour—head and shoulders above everyone else," said Ron Cerrudo, a long-time friend and the man who beat him for the title in the San Antonio Open.

Lotz was second in that one, skipped the next tournament and finished fourth last week. That gave him winnings of $49,000 in his last three starts and pushed him into the No. 1 spot on the money winning list at $54,000.

Lotz, who has been under 70 in 10 of his last 11 competitive rounds, had a final 68 and finished at 275, nine under par and three strokes ahead of Dave Stockton, who took second with a 67.

Lotz started the day in a tie for one top with veteran Bill Collins, took sole control when Collins bogeyed the first hole and was in command the rest of the way. He stretched his lead to four strokes at one point and the last challenge failed when Ray Floyd bogeyed the 16th hole and took a double bogey six on the 17th.

Floyd finished with a 72 for 280. British Open champ Tony Jacklin, with a 71, and Homero Blancas, with a sparkling 64, tied at 281, followed by John Miller and Bob Charles, 282.

South African Gary Player had a 73 for 283 and Arnold Palmer had a 69 for 284. Collins, troubled with an aching ankle, limped in with a fat 78 and finished well back at 285.

BIG LEAGUE PARK AGAIN — This is County Stadium in Milwaukee, former home of the Braves, which will again become a major league ball park with the Seattle Pilots moving their American League franchise to the Wisconsin city.

Report Seattle Pilots Set For Move To Milwaukee

NEW YORK (AP) — Milwaukee, which inherited the Braves from Boston in 1953 and lost them to Atlanta four years ago, is about to get another baseball team.

The Associated Press has learned from unimpeachable sources that the financially troubled Seattle Pilots' American League franchise will be shifted to Milwaukee for the start of the 1970 season.

The finals of the Stoutsville PTO tournament will be held tonight at Stoutsville Junior High School.

Hoover and Son will meet Circleville Oil in the championship game at 8 p.m. and DuPont K and T will meet Stoutsville Merchants in the consolation game at 6:45 p.m.

Stinson Hits Homers For Dodgers

By TOM SALADINO Associated Press Sports Writer — Bob Stinson's awesome power display Sunday might have won him a job with the Los Angeles Dodgers but it certainly didn't help Mike Whitson's chances any.

Stinson, a rookie catcher trying to stick with the parent Dodgers, crashed two home runs in one inning—an explosive nine-run 17th inning—leading the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 14-6 exhibition baseball victory over the Washington Senators. A switch hitter, Stinson, batting left-handed, opened the big inning with a slam over the right field wall off Whitson. As the Dodgers batted around, Stinson came up again and bombed another clout, this one a two-run shot, capping the uprising. And again it was off right-hander Whitson, who absorbed all the punishment in the inning. Stinson, who hit .281 at Spokane last year, cracked only six homers for the Pacific Coast League club in 117 games and none in a brief stay with the Dodgers at the end of the season.

In another wild extra inning affair, the Oakland A's exploded for seven runs in the 11th inning in stopping Seattle's B squad 12-7. Joe Rudi, Tito Francona and rookie Jim Driscoll slammed homers for the A's.

Non-roster rookie catcher Bart Zeller drilled an 11th-inning single, snapping a 1-1 tie and sending the St. Louis Cardinals to a 2-1 triumph over the Chicago White Sox. Another receiver, veteran John Edwards, knocked in the winner with an eighth-inning single in Houston's 5-4 victory over Minnesota. It was the winless Twins eighth straight loss.

Ron Woods slammed a two-run triple in the 11th inning, sending the New York Yankees to a 9-8 triumph over Montreal. Ron Fairly belted a home run for the Expos.

The Chicago Cubs rode the home run punch of Johnny Callison and Billy Williams to a 7-5 decision over San Francisco. Seattle exploded for seven runs in the fourth inning and coasted past San Diego, 8-1.

Danny Breeden's run-scoring single capped a three-run ninth inning flurry by Cincinnati in the Reds' 7-6 triumph over the New York Mets. Joe Foy had a homer for New York.

Bob Robertson knocked in one run and Angel Manuel two as the Pittsburgh Pirates came up with three ninth-inning tallies in their 6-4 victory over Mexico City.

Bob Mitchell's RBI single in the eighth inning proved the winner as Atlanta swept past Baltimore 8-7. The Braves got home runs from Orlando Cepeda, Rico Carty and Hank Aaron. It was Aaron's fifth of the spring.

Deron Johnson and Larry Hise supplied the power in Philadelphia's 7-5 triumph over Kansas City. Johnson slammed two homers and Hise one.

Gary Peters, Lee Stange and Jose Santiago limited Detroit to three hits and Rico Petrocelli led Boston's attack with four hits in the Red Sox 4-1 victory over the Tigers.

The Cleveland Indians got six third-inning runs and coasted to a 6-3 victory over California.

With 5:23 to go in the game, Welch zipped a 15-foot jump shot through the cords that gave the Pioneers a 60-59 lead. From that point on the winners were never behind.

A minute after his first bucket, Welch canned another 15-footer that gave the Pioneers a three point lead.

Skyvue countered with a basket by Bishop, but again Welch found the range to widen the margin to three. Jeff Reisinger widened the margin to five at 66-61 before Skyvue scored again.

With less than a minute and a half to go in the game, Welch drove in for the winning basket. He made the shot and was dumped on the floor by a Skyvue defender trying to prevent the tally. Welch made it a three point play by sinking the foul shot.

From then on the Pioneers scored all their points at the charity stripe as Skyvue fouled quickly and frequently to prevent any stalling tactics. But the Pioneers were able to convert the scoring opportunities the fouls provided for their final 9-point victory margin.

Skyvue was dumped from the tournament trail with a 24-2 final season record. The only other loss of the season for the Hawks was to Frontier Local by a 66-65 margin. Frontier was the team that Zane Trace beat in the first game of last year's regional tournament at Athens.

The Pioneers will carry a 26-0 record into St. John Arena Friday. Sebring, the team they play, has a 23-2 mark.

Harklerode Leads

ZANESVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Howard Harklerode of Youngstown bowled a 299 Sunday, missing the seven pin in his last frame, to take the lead in the singles handicap division of the 69th annual Ohio State Men's Bowling Tournament here.

Harklerode leads the singles handicap with a 766, followed by Robert Cooke of New London with 754 and Eugene Adams of Cincinnati at 731.

The finals of the Stoutsville PTO tournament will be held tonight at Stoutsville Junior High School.

Up-And-Coming Dick Lotz Winner Of Monsanto Open

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Dick Lotz turned to golf because he was told to, almost quit and wouldn't want to do it all over again.

"Our dad told us to stick to golf and stay away from baseball," the personable, 27-year-old Lotz said Sunday after scoring his biggest victory in the $150,000 Monsanto Open Golf Tournament.

Lotz, the son of a former Pacific Coast League pitcher, came on the tour along with brother John in 1964 and didn't make more than $3,000 in his next three seasons.

"It was pretty miserable," he said. "If I had to do it over again, well, I don't think I'd do it."

He won about $15,000 the next year—"just about made expenses"—vaulted to $23,000 the next season, $38,000 last year, including a victory in the $50,000 Alameda County Open, and then came into his own this season.

"For the last four weeks, he's been the best player on the tour—head and shoulders above everyone else," said Ron Cerrudo, a long-time friend and the man who beat him for the title in the San Antonio Open.

Lotz was second in that one, skipped the next tournament and finished fourth last week. That gave him winnings of $49,000 in his last three starts and pushed him into the No. 1 spot on the money winning list at $54,000.

Lotz, who has been under 70 in 10 of his last 11 competitive rounds, had a final 68 and finished at 275, nine under par and three strokes ahead of Dave Stockton, who took second with a 67.

Lotz started the day in a tie for the top with veteran Bill Collins, took sole control when Collins bogeyed the first hole and was in command the rest of the way. He stretched his lead to four strokes at one point and the last challenge failed when Ray Floyd bogeyed the 16th hole and took a double bogey six on the 17th.

Floyd finished with a 72 for 290. British Open champ Tony Jacklin, with a 71, and Homero Blancas, with a sparkling 64, tied at 281, followed by John Miller and Bob Charles, 282.

South African Gary Player had a 73 for 283 and Arnold Palmer had a 69 for 284. Collins, troubled with an aching ankle, limped in with a fat 78 and finished well back at 285.

Cool Hand, Terlogo Win Horse Races

By ED SCHUYLER JR. Associated Press Sports Writer — Cool Hand and Terlogo are the latest to put in their two cents worth in thoroughbred racing's purse-and-prestige-rich year-old division.

Cool Hand, owned by Mr. and Mrs. John C. Mabey, won the first division of the San Felipe Handicap in a three-horse blanket finish Saturday at Santa Anita.

Then Mr. and Mrs. Samuel J. Agnew's Terlogo beat favored George Lewis in the second section of the 1-1-6-mile race that is a stepping-stone for the $100,000-added Santa Anita Derby March 28.

The 1971 USGA Girls Junior golf championship will be played at the Augusta, Ga., Country Club.

British Motorists

Like Clean Cars
LONDON (AP) - British motorists spend three million pounds (7.2 million dollars) a year on car polishes and shampoos and clean their cars twice as often as Americans, according to "Drive," magazine of the British Automobile Association.

And most of it is to very little purpose, says AA chief engineer
Marcus Jacobson.

Some cars actually become duller when polish is used and for most cars a regular washing in clean water is sufficient, he adds.

OHIO WEATHER SUMMARY
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Official Weather Bureau summary for Ohio:

The end of a week-long cold spell is expected beginning Tuesday with a moderating trend which should bring warmer conditions through the middle of the week.

Late Sunday night temperatures were in the teens over most of the state and some of the coldest spots were Youngstown with 11 and Dayton with 10 degrees. Skies were clear over the west and southern portions with variable cloudiness and a few lingering snow flurries in the northeast.

Snow on the ground this morning averaged around one inch over most of the state but Youngstown reported three and Cleveland five.

Up to six and 10 inches of snow were reported in the snow belt just east of Cleveland in Geauga and eastern Cuyahoga County.

A high pressure system near Minnesota this morning will continue southeastward movement and reach the Ohio area Tuesday bringing fair and not so cold weather to the Buckeye State.

Lows tonight will be in the teens and low 20s. Afternoon temperatures Tuesday will be mostly in the upper 30s and lower 40s.

67-Year-Old Held In Slaying

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A 67-year-old man was held for questioning by Brook Park police in the shooting death Sunday of his son-in-law, William F. Ewart, 38.

Police said Ben F. Graves was in the house when they arrived and found Ewart lying in the kitchen with two bullet wounds in the head.

Graves gave police a .22-caliber pistol and rifle, detectives reported.

Ewart's wife and Graves' wife both were killed in an automobile accident in 1968.

Atlanta Braves' Ralph Garr Shows Signs Of Greatness

By WALTER L. JOHNS
Central Press Sports Editor
WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. — Ralph Garr can tell you his batting averages for the four years he played for Grambling College — without flinching an eye — but it's the way he tells it that draws your attention.

Like . . . "Oh, I hit about .500 and a little change." Meaning, of course, he hit .582 in his senior year.

He tells you he never ran on a track team in school, but he stole 63 bases in the International League last year, and says he doesn't know where he gets his speed.

You ask him his nickname and he says "Sconnie." Why? "Dunno," he says, "except I was small. I only weighed 150 pounds for a longtime."

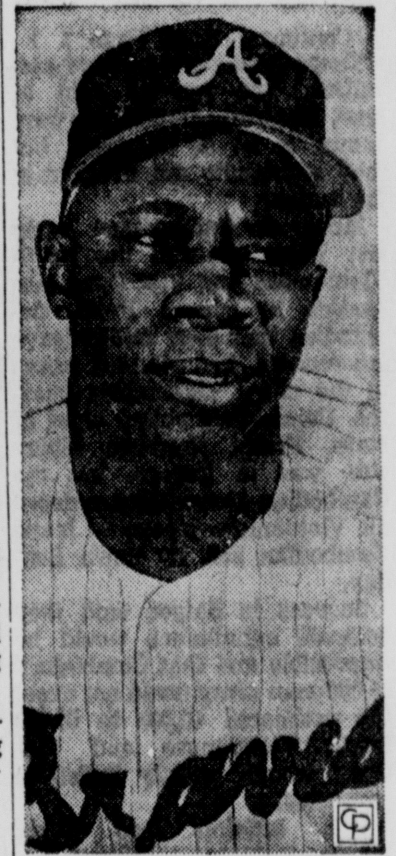

What does he weigh now? "About 193," he says. And how did he gain that weight? "Well, we had to eat a lot of potatoes while at Grambling."

Ralph Garr is an outfield candidate for the Atlanta Braves, one of their best prospects in years. He comes up from Richmond. Manager Lum Harris says he will become one of the most exciting ballplayers in the game.

Last year he was the International League batting champ with a .329 mark. And he led the loop in those stolen bases.

Garr has been in baseball just three years, starting at Austin in the Texas League in 1967 where he hit .274 in his first season in pro ball. He was at Shreveport in 1968, hit .293 and then had his big year with Richmond last season.

Kentucky State Wins NAIA Title
KANSAS CITY (AP) — Is Kentucky State of Frankfort destined to become the next so-called small college to graduate to the ranks of the major schools in basketball?

The Thorobreds captured their first NAIA cage championship Saturday night with a 79-71 victory over Central Washington State. And, they looked good enough to challenge many of the big boys of collegiate basketball.

Charley Morse, a Michigan State sophomore, fought off a childhood polio attack which left him with crippled legs. He's now a star gymnast.

One of eight children, Ralph attended Lincoln High in Ruston, La., where he still lives, and won a scholarship to Grambling where he played baseball four years. His coach was Dr. Ralph Waldo Emerson Jones, also president of the college.

The Braves signed him in 1967 for a $20,000 bonus. Most of the other clubs passed him up because they said he was too small.

He played ball in the Dominican Republic this past winter and here he led the league in stolen bases with 27 for the few games played. And he batted a cool .387.

In camp here Hank Aaron is giving Ralph the pointers. Particularly on his fielding for Ralph is a natural hitter.

Danny Breeden Hero For Reds

WINTER HAVEN, Fla. (AP) — Danny Breeden had the chance to become a hero — a real rarity for the catcher — and he did not let it slip by.

Breeden rapped a run-scoring single to provide the Cincinnati Reds with a 7-6 comeback victory over the New York Mets Sunday in an exhibition game.

Although Breeden has been the property of four major league clubs, he has seen only very limited action and that has been with the Reds.

Ohio Weekend Traffic Toll Held To Relatively Low 10

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
One traffic death occurred Friday night and two were reported Sunday as the state recorded a relatively low weekend death toll.

Ten persons died in weekend mishaps, five below the average toll for the eleven weekends so far this year. It was the fourth weekend of 1970 with 10 or fewer traffic deaths.

The only multiple-fatality accident occurred early Saturday and took the lives of John Conley, 47, and his 17-year-old daughter Joyce. Their car and a truck collided on Ohio 14 in Mahoning County.

Other deaths Saturday:
VAN WERT—Jeffrey Paxton, 16, Van Wert, whose car was hit by a freight train at a crossing near Van Wert.
CELINA—Bruce Gunderman, 20, Haviland, Paulding County, when his car smashed into the rear of a truck at the intersection of Ohio 33 and U.S. 127.
IRONTON—Lennie Nichols, 62, rural South Point, Lawrence County, of injuries received

Students Aid City Dystrophy Campaign

On St. Patrick's Day members of the SOS Club and the Junior and Senior DECA Clubs of Circleville High School will be sporting green in the form of "Shamrocks for Dystrophy" tags as Circleville joins the rest of America in a nationwide one-day fund-raising crusade — "Shamrocks for Dystrophy" Day — to benefit Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America.

In the spirit of St. Patrick, who performed many miraculous cures as well as chasing the snakes out of Ireland, these young men and women will be handing out green Shamrocks for Dystrophy tags. In return, they'll be asking for some of your green to help MDAA research scientists perform a modern miracle by finding cures for muscular dystrophy and related neuromuscular diseases.

Local residents are urged to help put "St. Patrick back into St. Patrick's Day and, in the spirit of his kind of charity, bestow upon the victims of muscular dystrophy the precious gift of hope and perhaps life itself." "Let's give some green and watch it grow!"

The district competition is sanctioned by the Ohio Music Education Assn. (OMEA).

Port Of Suez Ghost Town After Year Of Bombs, Shells

SUEZ, Egypt (AP)—This port at the southern end of the paralyzed Suez Canal is a ghost town today.

Before the 1967 war, the population was 250,000, the canal was handling 57 ships a day, the refinery was operating at full capacity and tourists from passenger ships thronged the streets.

Now after more than a year of frequent bombing and shelling only a few thousand persons remain. Many of these are soldiers who patrol rubble-filled streets or sit in machine-gun nests atop windowless five-story apartment buildings scarred by shrapnel.

Whole streets have been almost obliterated. The refinery is closed down, its storage tanks rusting, blackened by fire and blasted out of shape.

Egyptian officials say Israeli bombardments have killed 400 civilians and destroyed 3,000 buildings, including schools, mosques, churches and hospitals.

The people began leaving Suez in September 1967 when Israeli guns first pounded the town in reprisal for the sinking of the destroyer Eilat.

The nearest Israeli artillery battery is a mile from the center of town. In some places only 100 yards separate Egyptian

More Snow Hits Central Part Of U.S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
An indignant winter refused to recognize the coming of spring today as snow whitened parts of Kansas, Wyoming, Colorado and Oklahoma and flurries scattered from the Great Lakes to New England and down to North Carolina.

At Dodge City, Kan., snow was reported to be falling at 1 inch per hour with 6 inches on the ground by early morning. Up to 4 inches were forecast for northern Oklahoma and traveler's warnings were posted for south and central Nebraska and western and south-central Kansas.

Cold also hung over parts of the nation as a frigid night gripped the southeastern states as far south as northwest Florida.

In contrast, an inch of rain was reported at Quillayute, like conditions prevailed through south Texas to southern California.

Early morning highs and lows ranged from 6 below at Grand Forks, N.D., to 70 at Blythe, Calif.

Combs To Quit As Judge, Report

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Bert T. Combs is expected soon to announce his resignation as a judge on the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals based in Cincinnati to enter private law practice at Louisville.

Such a move, confirmed Sunday by several reliable sources, does not necessarily mean the former Democratic governor will seek another term in 1971.

In fact, Combs is believed more likely to make an open endorsement of Lt. Gov. Wendell Ford for governor.

troops from Israeli troops across the canal in Port Taufiq. The only ships in the canal are 15 vessels trapped when fighting broke out in June 1967. Fourteen of them set idly in Great Bitter Lake, 25 miles north of Suez. The other, the American freighter, Observer, is 50 miles south of Port Said, the canal's northern end.

Although one bridge is down and two sunken ships block the waterway, Egyptian experts say it would take only six months to open the canal. Removal and dredging operations, they add, would cost $30 million.

San Francisco Strike Hits Waterfront And Airport

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — San Francisco went into the fourth day of a strike by municipal employees today, facing closure of its port, possible impairment of operations at busy International Airport and a threatened general work stoppage.

Leaders of 7,000 striking city employees said they would picket the docks, and longshore union spokesmen said there was little doubt the lines would be respected "all along the waterfront."

Leaders of nonstriking unions called a mass meeting of their memberships for 10 a.m. today at Longshoremen's Hall near the waterfront to debate the question of a general strike.

Tim Richardson, chairman of Teamsters Local 85 and a member of the Joint Labor Strike Committee which the nonstriking unions formed when the municipal walkout began Friday, told a news conference Sunday night the committee had decided to call for a united labor front leading to a general strike if necessary.

Cyril Magnin, chairman of the Port Authority, said ships already had been diverted in anticipation the docks would be tied up. Wharf fees bring the city $9,000 a day, he said, and the commerce will go to Oakland and other ports if the docks stay closed.

At San Francisco International Airport, also city-owned and operated, some 340 employees were out, including 120 janitors. Their absence left litter eddying about the vast concourse and waiting rooms and waste paper piling up in washrooms. Also on strike at the airport were maintenance men and mechanics who tend automatic doors, air conditioners, baggage conveyors and other machinery.

All municipal transit is dead. City hospital has provided only emergency service since Friday.

Schools, which closed at noon Friday after too few teachers showed up to handle classes, were to reopen today.

Mayor Joseph Alioto said he would not seek court injunctions against the strike.

"You don't settle labor disputes in the courts," he said. "You settle them by negotiations, and that's what we're doing."

There were no reports of casualties. The sources said at least 10 Cambodian tanks were known to be in the area, but they apparently did not join in the action.

Mobs of Cambodians early last week attacked the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong embassies in Phnom Penh, demanding that their troops leave the country, and pillaged stores in the city's Vietnamese quarter. Cambodia's ruling chief of state, Prince Norodom Sihanouk, was in Europe, but the Cambodian government ordered all Vietnamese troops to leave Cambodian soil by dawn Sunday.

Sources in Saigon said they believed compliance would be impossible and that Cambodia's 35,000-man army could not expel the estimated 40,000 to 60,000 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops, mostly logistical personnel.

U.S. officials and other sources in Saigon said there has been no unusual movement along the border to indicate that the North Vietnamese or Viet Cong were making any effort to comply with the eviction order.

In Vietnam, a four-engine U.S. Navy electronic spy plane with 31 Americans aboard crashed as it was landing at the Da Nang Air Base today and exploded in a huge ball of flames. Twenty-two of the plane's crew were killed, the other nine were injured, and so were two Air Force men on the ground. A U.S. spokesman said the plane had "an apparent mechanical failure."

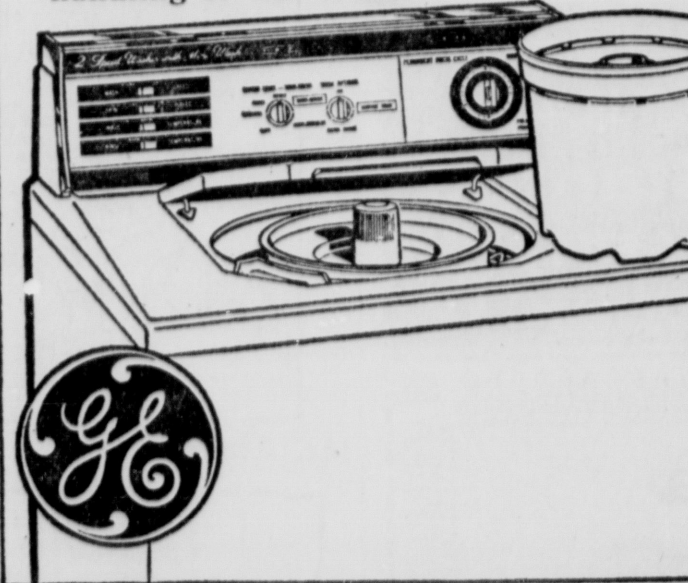

The plane crashed into a large Air Force maintenance hangar, destroying it and an F4 Phantom jet parked nearby, and damaging a second Phantom.

Brazilian Government Seeks Japanese Consul Kidnapers

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP) — The Brazilian government pressed its hunt for the kidnapers of Japanese Consul-General Nobuo Okuchi with renewed vigor today as the 56-year-old diplomat rested at home from his four-day ordeal. Meanwhile, the five political prisoners exchanged for him charged in Mexico that they had been tortured in Brazilian jails.

The police hunt had been suspended in compliance with a demand from the leftist terror organization which forced Okuchi from his car last Wednesday. The military-police team went back to work soon after a taxi deposited the consul half a block from his residence Sunday night, tired but unhurt.

As a crowd of about 500 cheered, police hustled Okuchi through the gates and rushed him to his waiting wife. Downtown at the consulate, normally reserved Japanese officials broke into wide smiles, clapped each other on the back and brought out two bottles of Scotch.

loyalty to white supremacy; his part in the organization of an all-white private golf club in Tallahassee; and the fact that his rulings from the bench on civil rights cases were frequently overturned on appeal.

Carswell, after his nomination, repudiated the 1948 remarks, made while campaigning for the Georgia legislature. In testimony before the Judiciary Committee he denied that avoiding desegregation was the intent of the group that incorporated the club.

Backers of the nomination say if his entire record is taken into consideration his decisions show a middle of the road approach to civil and human rights.

Carswell, a 50-year-old native of Irwinton, Ga., served as U.S. attorney for the northern district of Florida from 1953 to 1958, as U.S. district judge for the same area from 1958 to 1969 and was appointed to the Appeals Court in June last year.

The vacancy on the Supreme Court has existed since Fortas resigned under fire in May 1969.

Clement F. Haynsworth, chief judge of the 4th U.S. Court of Appeals in Richmond, Va., was nominated in August. He was rejected last November on a 55-45 vote after he was charged with possible conflicts of interest.

Okuchi was released 10 hours after the five exchanged prisoners arrived safely in Mexico City. They were a Roman Catholic nun accused of helping terrorists, a Japanese-Brazilian accused of belonging to a subversive group, a Brazilian arrested during a raid on a terrorist arms factory, a Brazilian accused of at least three murders including that of an American Army captain in 1968, and the wife of an alleged terrorist killed last month in a gun battle with police.

Ohio Weekend Traffic Toll Held To Relatively Low 10

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
One traffic death occurred Friday night and two were reported Sunday as the state recorded a relatively low weekend death toll.

Ten persons died in weekend mishaps, five below the average toll for the eleven weekends so far this year. It was the fourth weekend of 1970 with 10 or fewer traffic deaths.

The only multiple-fatality accident occurred early Saturday and took the lives of John Conley, 47, and his 17-year-old daughter Joyce. Their car and a truck collided on Ohio 14 in Mahoning County.

Other deaths Saturday: VAN WERT—Jeffrey Paxton, 16, Van Wert, whose car was hit by a freight train at a crossing near Van Wert.

CELINA—Bruce Gunderman, 20, Haviland, Paulding County, when his car smashed into the rear of a truck at the intersection of Ohio 33 and U.S. 127.

IRONTON—Lennie Nichols, 62, rural South Point, Lawrence County, of injuries received late Friday in a two-car crash on an Ironton street.

CLEVELAND—Patricia Woike, 25, Lakewood, when her car and a truck collided head on at a West Side Cleveland intersection.

WILLOUGHBY—Carleton W. Bonderant, 50, Willoughby, hit by a car as he crossed a Willoughby street.

Port Of Suez Ghost Town After Year Of Bombs, Shells

SUEZ, Egypt (AP)—This port at the southern end of the paralyzed Suez Canal is a ghost town today.

Before the 1967 war, the population was 250,000, the canal was handling 57 ships a day, the refinery was operating at full capacity and tourists from passenger ships thronged the streets.

Now after more than a year of frequent bombing and shelling only a few thousand persons remain. Many of these are soldiers who patrol rubble-filled streets or sit in machine-gun nests atop windowless five-story apartment buildings scarred by shrapnel.

Whole streets have been almost obliterated. The refinery is closed down, its storage tanks rusting, blackened by fire and blasted out of shape.

Egyptian officials say Israeli bombardments have killed 400 civilians and destroyed 3,000 buildings, including schools, mosques, churches and hospitals.

The people began leaving Suez in September 1967 when Israeli guns first pounded the town in reprisal for the sinking of the destroyer Eilat.

The nearest Israeli artillery battery is a mile from the center of town. In some places only 100 yards separate Egyptian troops from Israeli troops across the canal in Port Taufiq.

The only ships in the canal are 15 vessels trapped when fighting broke out in June 1967. Fourteen of them set idly in Great Bitter Lake, 25 miles north of Suez. The other, the American freighter, Observer, is 50 miles south of Port Said, the canal's northern end.

Although one bridge is down and two sunken ships block the waterway, Egyptian experts say it would take only six months to open the canal. Removal and dredging operations, they add, would cost $30 million.

San Francisco Strike Hits Waterfront And Airport

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—San Francisco went into the fourth day of a strike by municipal employees today, facing closure of its port, possible impairment of operations at busy International Airport and a threatened general work stoppage.

Leaders of 7,000 striking city employees said they would picket the docks, and longshore union spokesmen said there was little doubt the lines would be respected "all along the waterfront."

Leaders of nonstriking unions called a mass meeting of their memberships for 10 a.m. today at Longshoremen's Hall near the waterfront to debate the question of a general strike.

Tim Richardson, chairman of Teamsters Local 85 and a member of the Joint Labor Strike Committee which the nonstriking unions formed when the municipal walkout began Friday, told a news conference Sunday night the committee had decided to call for a united labor front leading to a general strike if necessary.

Cyril Magnin, chairman of the Port Authority, said ships already had been diverted in anticipation the docks would be tied up. Wharf fees bring the city $9,000 a day, he said, and the commerce will go to Oakland and other ports if the docks stay closed.

At San Francisco International Airport, also city-owned and operated, some 340 employees were out, including 120 janitors. Their absence left litter eddying about the vast concourse and waiting rooms and waste paper piling up in washrooms. Also on strike at the airport were maintenance men and mechanics who tend automatic doors, air conditioners, baggage conveyors and other machinery.

All municipal transit is dead. City hospital has provided only emergency service since Friday.

Schools, which closed at noon Friday after too few teachers showed up to handle classes, were to reopen today.

Mayor Joseph Alioto said he would seek court injunctions against the strike.

"You don't settle labor disputes in the courts," he said. "You settle them by negotiations, and that's what we're doing."

There were no reports of casualties. The sources said at least 10 Cambodian tanks were known to be in the area, but they apparently did not join in the action.

Mobs of Cambodians early last week attacked the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong embassies in Phnom Penh, demanding that their troops leave the country, and pillaged stores in the city's Vietnamese quarter. Cambodia's ruling chief of state, Prince Norodom Sihanouk, was in Europe, but the Cambodian government ordered all Vietnamese troops to leave Cambodian soil by dawn Sunday.

Sources in Saigon said they believed compliance would be impossible and that Cambodia's 35,000-man army could not expel the estimated 40,000 to 60,000 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops, mostly logistical personnel.

U.S. officials and other sources in Saigon said there has been no unusual movement along the border to indicate that the North Vietnamese or Viet Cong were making any effort to comply with the eviction order.

In Vietnam, a four-engine U.S. Navy electronic spy plane with 31 Americans aboard crashed as it was landing at the Da Nang Air Base today and exploded in a huge ball of flames.

Twenty-two of the plane's crew were killed, the other nine were injured, and so were two Air Force men on the ground. A U.S. spokesman said the plane had "an apparent mechanical failure."

The plane crashed into a large Air Force maintenance hangar, destroying it and an F4 Phantom jet parked nearby, and damaging a second Phantom.

Chandler outside his Sao Paulo home in 1968, said all political prisoners in Brazil are "systematically tortured."

Mrs. Damaris Oliveira Lucena, whose husband police killed last month, took her three children with her to Mexico City.

The other prisoner freed was Shizuo Ozawa, 25, said to be a member of the popular Revolutionary Vanguard, the organization which kidnaped Okuchi. He was arrested last month on political charges.

The diplomat's kidnapers said they were prepared to kill Okuchi and die with him if the government did not meet their demands.

Students Aid City Distrophy Campaign

On St. Patrick's Day members of the SOS Club and the Junior and Senior DECA Clubs of Circleville High School will be sporting green in the form of "Shamrocks for Distrophy" tags as Circleville joins the rest of America in a nationwide one-day fund-raising crusade — "Shamrocks for Distrophy" Day — to benefit Muscular Distrophy Associations of America.

In the spirit of St. Patrick, who performed many miraculous cures as well as chasing the snakes out of Ireland, these young men and women will be handing out green Shamrocks for Distrophy tags. In return, they'll be asking for some of your green to help M.D.A. research scientists perform a modern miracle by finding cures for muscular distrophy and related neuromuscular diseases.

Local residents are urged to help put "St. Patrick back into St. Patrick's Day" and, in the spirit of his kind of charity, bestow upon the victims of muscular distrophy the precious gift of hope and perhaps life itself. "Let's give some green and watch it grow!"

More Snow Hits Central Part Of U.S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

An indignant winter refused to recognize the coming of spring today as snow whitened parts of Kansas, Wyoming, Colorado and Oklahoma and flurries scattered from the Great Lakes to New England and down to North Carolina.

At Dodge City, Kan., snow was reported to be falling at 1 inch per hour with 6 inches on the ground by early morning.

Up to 4 inches were forecast for northern Oklahoma and traveler's warnings were posted for south and central Nebraska and western and south-central Kansas.

Cold also hung over parts of the nation as a frigid night gripped the southeastern states as far south as northwest Florida.

In contrast, an inch of rain was reported at Quilley, like conditions prevailed through south Texas to southern California.

Early morning highs and lows ranged from 6 below at Grand Forks, N.D., to 70 at Blythe, Calif.

Combs To Quit As Judge, Report

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP)—Bert T. Combs is expected soon to announce his resignation as a judge on the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals based in Cincinnati to enter private law practice at Louisville.

Such a move, confirmed Sunday by several reliable sources, does not necessarily mean the former Democratic governor will seek another term in 1971.

In fact, Combs is believed more likely to make an open endorsement of Lt. Gov. Wendell Ford for governor.
